HARRY M. ROBINSON WILL BE DIVISION RAILWAY MAIL HEAD

Reorganization of Railway Mail Service for Fourth Division Completed—First Details of Appointments

KING KEEPS JOB; AUSTIN GIVEN CHIEF CLERKSHIP

Rager Goes to San Francisco and Pepper to Cleveland, George S. Cobb Made Chief Clerk in Atlanta

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The reorganization of the railway mail service for the fourth division, embracing the states of Georgia, Alabama, Florida, South Carolina and Tennessee, was perfected yesterday afternoon by Postmaster General Burleson, after a conference with General Superintendent Alex H. Stephens and Second Assistant Postmaster General Stewart.

Harry M. Robinson, a native Atlantan, becomes superintendent of the division, with headquarters in Atlanta, vice George W. Pepper, transferred to Cleveland, Ohio, as a chief clerk.

Edward P. King, of Atlanta, retains his place as assistant superintendent.

George S. Cobb, of Cartersville, becomes chief clerk at Atlanta, vice Charles E. Rager, transferred to San Francisco, as chief clerk of the eighth division.

W. L. M. Austin, of Atlanta, is promoted to a chief clerkship and transferred from the Atlanta-Charlotte run to Jacksonville, Fla., vice Charles S. Beavers, transferred to Pittsburg, Pa., as chief clerk.

CHANGES EFFECTIVE SOON.

The official order making the changes as outlined will be issued today or Thursday, and becomes effective just as soon as the transfers can be made. It is understood that both Pepper and Rager are ready to leave Atlanta on a moment's notice, and it is believed that Beavers will quit his post at Jacksonville at the first opportunity, so that the entire shift will be operative within a week or ten days.

Harry Robinson, the new superintendent at Atlanta, leaves a similar position in the twelfth division, with headquarters at New Orleans. No one has been selected to fill the vacancy thus created, and the duties of the New Orleans office will be performed by John Day, the assistant superintendent of the twelfth division.

It may be three months or more before a superintendent is selected for New Orleans. It is believed he will be chosen from among King, Cobb and Austin.

ROBINSON'S FINE RECORD.

Mr. Robinson is one of the best known men in the service, with which he has been identified for years. He was in charge of the United States mails in Cuba during the Spanish-American war, and made such a fine record that he was sent to China by the postoffice department during the Boxer uprising. Later he established the mail service in Alaska. When the twelfth division was created some years ago, he was given its superintendency in recognition of his ability.

He is very popular with the clerks of the fourth division, among whom he worked for many years.

George Cobb, the new chief clerk at Atlanta, has worked for many years in the railway mail service. He is at present a "clerk in charge" on the Atlanta-Nashville railway postoffice. His record for efficiency is without a blemish, and the postoffice department believes that he is the man of all men to handle the Atlanta clerk ship, which is the most important in the division.

The announcement of Mr. Cobb's selection as the Atlanta office will occasion no surprise. His name was previously mentioned in connection with the reorganization of the division. He is naturally modest and retiring, and it remained for Representative B. Tramwell, the Georgia railroad commissioner, Thomas Lumpkin, of Bartow county and other friends of Mr. Cobb to present his name to the postoffice department. Their recommendations were more than substantiated by the young man's record, and his selection followed as a matter of course.

W. L. M. Austin who goes to Jacksonville as chief clerk was an active supporter of the superintendency of the division and was strongly indorsed for the position by a number of senators and congressmen. He has been in the service for many years and has a fine record.

USEFUL REORGANIZATION.

The reorganization of the railway mail service in the fourth division has been under consideration by Postmaster General Burleson for several weeks. It presented a difficult problem on its face, which was aggravated by the rivalry between Austin and Edward P. King, of Atlanta, for the place of superintendent. The department does not consider it a reflection upon Mr. Austin that he was transferred to Jacksonville, with a promotion, nor upon Mr. King that he was retained as assistant superintendent at Atlanta. It is the belief of postoffice officials that the changes as agreed upon solve the problem of the situation satisfactorily and will make for an improved service.

General Superintendent Stephens today expressed great satisfaction with the reorganization. He is familiar with the records and capabilities of all the men affected by the change and is confident that no mistake has been made.

Poison Found in Body of Crawford Mary Phagan Pay Envelope Found

HIS BODY EXAMINED BY DR. H. F. HARRIS, WHO FOUND MORPHINE

Startling Testimony at Hearing of Will Case by Physician, Who Says He Exhumed Body and Performed Autopsy

MR. CRAWFORD DIDN'T DIE FROM PNEUMONIA, HE SAYS

Testimony Introduced in Effort to Strengthen Contention of Heirs Against Mrs. Mary Crawford

A sensation developed Wednesday morning in the famous Crawford will case, which had been on trial before James N. Anderson, auditor for several months when Dr. H. F. Harris, secretary of the state board of health, testified that he exhumed the body of Joshua B. Crawford late in June of this year and found unmistakeable traces of morphine in the stomach.

This testimony was introduced to strengthen the allegation made in the petition of the "Crawford heirs" that Mrs. Mary Belle Crawford, of 674 West Peachtree, the widow and chief beneficiaress of the Crawford will, "produced the death of the deceased by the continued administration of narcotics and intoxicants."

Previous to the introduction as a witness of Dr. Harris the only testimony which tended in any way to substantiated the sensational allegation was the statement of one witness that she saw Mrs. Mary Belle Crawford take a vial from her belt and give her husband several drops of a peculiar looking fluid. The fluid was administered, the witness stated, in the presence of several people.

The move of J. H. James and the other attorneys for the Crawford heirs in having the body of the deceased exhumed is said to have taken all the followers of the Crawford case by surprise.

Dr. Harris, who went to Carrollton, Ga., where Crawford was buried, to remove the body from the grave, stated, however, that it was in such a state of preservation that all of the organs could be made out and their condition prior to death noted.

DEATH NOT FROM PNEUMONIA.

The physician gave it as his decided opinion that Crawford did not die of pneumonia, as Mrs. Mary Belle Crawford and her friends claim.

Dr. Harris said that from the amount of morphine which he found in the body on the exhumation in June that a large quantity must have been in the body at the time of his death. He also found many traces of neucolic acid, an element of opium, he said.

Mrs. Crawford's attorneys, Burton Smith and Reuben R. Arnold, immediately advanced the theory that poison of various kinds were in the fluid used by the embalmers, who prepared J. B. Crawford's body for burial, and testimony to substantiate this theory will be advanced probably on Thursday.

HISTORY OF CASE.

Mrs. Mary Belle Crawford, a young woman, married J. B. Crawford, when the latter was in very feeble health because of his advanced age. He died only a few months after the marriage, and since that time there has been litigation in the courts over his estate, which in 1909, at the time of his death, was valued only at about $125,000, but since that date the property has increased in value until it is now estimated that the Crawford estate is worth $250,000.

The widow has won a number of suits in connection with the estate, but one of the main issues is now being heard before the auditor.

There has been no intimation that in view of the startling testimony of the physician, that criminal proceedings will be instituted.

There are approximately forty of the alleged heirs of the Crawford estate, who are fighting Mrs. Crawford in the courts, and they have even attacked the validity of her marriage.

MYSTERY'S LOST LINK IS FOUND NEAR WHERE CONLEY SAYS HE SAT

Finding of Portion of Salary Envelope Bearing Victim's Name Expected to Strengthen Defense's Contention

CONTENTS OF ENVELOPE HAVE NEVER BEEN FOUND

Find Was Made by Pinkertons Just Three Weeks After the Murder, but Was Kept a Secret Until Wednesday

The pay envelope, which was the quest of Mary Phagan at the National Pencil factory on April 26, when she met her death, has been found.

At least enough of the envelope to definitely identify it is in the hands of the authorities.

The upper corner of the pay envelope, bearing the name of the victim of the sensational murder mystery, was found on the first floor of the factory by Pinkerton detectives three weeks after the commission of the crime.

While attorneys for the defense and the prosecution have known of the find for weeks, the fact only became public Wednesday.

The corner of the pay envelope was found on the first floor of the factory, behind a radiator, about 15 feet from the stairway and about 8 feet from the place, where James Conley, the negro sweeper, says he sat for more than an hour on the day of the tragedy.

Apparently the portion of the envelope containing the girl's pitiful wage, was carried away. The upper portion could naturally have been torn off and thrown away by the girl or anyone else, who wanted to reach the money.

But at the same time it is possible that the murderer, not wishing to have the incriminating evidence on his person, threw away the only part of the envelope, which could be identified and kept the blank paper.

It is said that the finding of the envelope will prove an assistance to the defense of Leo M. Frank, rather than to the state, for the simple reason that it was found so near the spot where Conley was sitting.

In the several portions of the negro's various confessions of complicity, which have been made public he has never made any mention of the envelope or of the purse of the dead girl, which, it is said, never has been found.

The discovery of the envelope in the particular spot where it is said to have been found, is practically certain to be used by Frank's attorneys, Reuben R. Arnold and Luther Z. Rosser, in the defense of the trial of Frank. Their view of the matter is said to be that it tends strongly to incriminate the negro and exculpate Frank as the real slayer of Mary Phagan.

HABEAS CORPUS.

Indefinite postponement of the habeas corpus proceedings to secure the release of Newt Lee, negro witness held in the Phagan murder case, was agreed by the negro's attorneys, Graham and Chappell, and the solicitor general, Hugh M. Dorsey, at the calling of the petition for hearing before Judge W. D. Ellis Wednesday morning.

It was stated then, upon authority, that the defense representing Leo M. Frank, superintendent of the National Pencil factory, accused of the murder, was not interested in the proceedings in behalf of Newt Lee, either for or against the negro, and that the lawyers retained by Frank would take no hand in that matter one way or the other.

Postponement of the case to a definite time had been expected before the habeas corpus matter was taken up, and, upon previous instructions, the sheriff did not have the negro in court.

This action seemed to dispose of the probability that Jim Conley, the negro sweeper at the factory, and Leo M. Frank, whom he accuses, would be brought face to face in the court in this matter for the first time since Conley made the allegations against the superintendent.

TEMPERANCE BILL WILL STRENGTHEN WEBB LAW

A temperance bill which will "gather the fruits" of the Webb-Kenyon bill against interstate shipments of liquor, will be introduced in the legislature at this session.

It has been decided not to introduce the Tippins bill, or any measure like it, at this session. This plan was agreed upon at a meeting of the legislative committee of the Georgia Anti-Saloon league which was held at the Wesley Memorial church Tuesday night.

COMMISSION FLAYS NEW HAVEN ROAD'S BUSINESS METHODS

Wasteful Financial Management Resulted in Deficit of $930,000 Instead of Dividend, Says Report

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Financial operations of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, its ownership of trolley lines and control of allied New England railways, are condemned in unmeasured terms by the interstate commerce commission in the report of its investigation made public here today. The commission's conclusions are:

That the "outside" financial management has been "wasteful in the extreme," and that had the New Haven confined itself to actual railroad activities under the same conditions that prevailed in other respects "it could have paid a dividend of 8 per cent for the fiscal year 1912 and carried to surplus account $1,784,000, instead of showing a deficit of $930,000."

That the New Haven's agreement with the Boston and Albany is "violative of the spirit of the statute against the restraint of competition and should be cancelled." "In our opinion," says the commission, "this line should be kept entirely free from New Haven control."

That the New Haven should divest itself of its trolley lines, not because the present ownership is in violation of law, but because such ownership might be used to prevent the building of competing lines in the future.

That the Boston and Maine's merger with the New Haven, if permitted to stand, will result in "an almost exclusive monopoly of transportation facilities by railroads in the greater part of New England."

That passenger train service, without considering safety of operation, on the New Haven, is distinctly better than any other line entering New York, and that of the Boston and Maine equally as good. Both roads, however, are criticised adversely for lack of steel cars.

That the freight service of the Boston and Maine "is much less reliable than that of either the Pennsylvania or the Baltimore and Ohio, while that of the New Haven is slightly inferior to the Pennsylvania, but about on a par with the Baltimore and Ohio."

That passenger fares in New England have been more favorable to the local traveling public than in any other portion of the United States.

That "any betterment of railroad conditions must begin with the assurance that the New Haven management will act not only prudently, but within the letter and the spirit of the law."

NO ORDER MADE.

No order was made by the commission, but in its opinion, the following propositions, which have national application to all railroads, lie at the foundation of adequate railroad regulation:

"Every interstate railroad should be

YEGG CRACKS A SAFE NEAR DECATUR, THEN HOLDS UP WATCHMAN

$300 in Currency Taken From Scott's Mill Safe at Scottdale Early on Wednesday Morning

Holding an armed night-watchman of the Scottdale mills at the point of his revolver, a safe-blower who had just opened the safe in Scott's mill store, managed not only to avert his own capture or death, but to effect his clean escape as well, at Scottdale, just east of Decatur, shortly after 3 o'clock Wednesday morning when day was breaking.

The police have no other than a circumstantial clue as yet. They have arrested J. J. Crawford, who called at the Decatur jail Tuesday to see Walter P. Turpin confined there to answer for wrecking the postoffice safe at Kirkwood the other night, and who boarded the Georgia railroad train at Scottdale Wednesday morning, riding into Atlanta.

He was arrested as the train arrived in Atlanta by city officers at the request of Sheriff McCurdy, of DeKalb county.

Approximately $30 0in currency was secured by the robber from the safe. He used nitroglycerine and blew the doors entirely from the box.

J. W. Myers, night watchman at the Scottdale mills, heard the explosion. Investigating he found the muzzle of the intruder's revolver staring him in the face out of the gloom. At the robber's command the watchman, armed, but with his own weapon in his pocket and so useless, turned and walked ahead of the criminal along the road.

Crawford, the man arrested as a suspect, states that he is a blacksmith and lives at 734 1-2 Marietta street. Sheriff McCurdy stated that when he called on Turpin at the Decatur jail Tuesday, he told the jailers that he was a friend of Turpin and that formerly they had roomed together.

The detectives were impressed by the

DR. GEORGE S. TIGNER, PROMINENT DENTIST, KILLS SELF IN HOTEL

Throat Was Cut and He Had Been Dead for Nearly an Hour When the Deed Was Discovered

Dr. George S. Tigner, the well-known Atlanta dentist, took his own life early Wednesday morning in the Imperial hotel, where he made his home.

About 4 o'clock Dr. Tigner got up and went to the bath in the east end of the hotel. His wife was awakened, but presently went back to sleep. In about an hour she waked again, and was frightened by finding him still gone.

She got up and went to the bath and found the door locked. Stooping down and looking underneath the door, she was able to discern his body lying on the floor.

She gave the alarm to the hotel officials and they broke open the door and found Dr. Tigner dead, with his throat cut.

The body was taken to Patterson's undertaking establishment, and an inquest was held there at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

A rundown, nervous condition is thought to have been the cause of Dr. Tigner's act. For some time his family and friends have known that he was not up to his normal standard of health, as he has frequently spoken of his nervousness and said he was going to take a long rest as soon as he could get his affairs in shape. No one suspected, however, that his strength had ebbed so low as to render him dangerously despondent.

WIDELY POPULAR.

The news of Dr. Tigner's death will be a shock to a host of friends. He was a citizen of Atlanta for many years.

No man had a wider circle of friends in Atlanta and no more genuinely liked than was Dr. Tigner. He was a church member, belonged to various social and fraternal organizations, and was one of the leaders in his profession.

Dr. Tigner was born and reared at White Sulphur Springs, Ga., in Meriwether county. He was graduated at Emory college, where he joined the A. T. O. fraternity. At the University of Maryland he entered the department of dentistry, graduating some twenty years ago with high honors.

He had attained an enviable reputation as a dentist. Since coming to Atlanta about eighteen years ago, his practice had grown to a generous size and it was largely through his unceasing attention to it that his health became impaired.

He was regarded as an authority on dentistry, not only among his clientele, but among members of the profession as well. One of the chairs of the Atlanta Dental college was filled by him for many years, and it was but a short time ago that he was elected a vice president of Grady hospital trustees.

About twelve years ago Dr. Tigner married Miss Lula Singer, an Atlanta

SUFFRAGISTS GIVEN USE OF HOUSE HALL, BUT SENATE SIDESTEPS

Mrs. Whiteside Criticises Mrs. McLendon, and Latter Expresses Her Views of Mrs. Whiteside and State Senate

Use of the hall of the house of representatives was granted to the Georgia Womans Suffrage association by the members of the house Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Frances S. Whiteside, chairman of the educational committee of the Atlanta Civic league, issued a public statement in which she declared that the members of the civic league, "most heartily condemn the drastic measures now being used by Mrs. Mary L. McLendon and her friends," and added "we know too well the ability of our general assembly, to show such childish anger."

The Georgia senate again refused to allow to the women suffragists the use of that hall.

The senate filibustered 45 minutes with an invitation from the association to attend its meetngs, and finally laid the invitation on the table.

The leaders of the suffrage association planned for the first of their state meetings Wednesday evening in the house of representatives.

And members of the senate, who are friendly to the cause of woman suffrage, declared their purpose of hammering away for recognition if not approval of the cause, until success rewards their efforts.

These were the interesting developments Wednesday forenoon in the sensation which the Georgia senate precipitated the other day when it refused

Court Frees Her Of One Husband

After having been decreed by law to have two husbands and having experienced that novel situation for several months past, Mrs. Lucy Froelich or Bloomer is now at liberty, so far as the courts of Georgia are concerned, to remarry her second husband, Nathan Froelich, a butcher in Atlanta.

Some time ago Jacob Bloomer, of Louisville, Ky., appeared in Atlanta and successfully induced a bride the divorce verdict which Mrs. Bloomer had secured from him. Thereupon Mrs. Froelich, having for the meantime married the butcher, found herself with two husbands.

Mrs. Froelich appeared in court Wednesday and was successful in a petition asking that her alleged marriage to Bloomer be set aside, declaring that no ceremony was performed uniting them and that she was merely his common law wife.

Nathan Froelich and Mrs. Froelich have made their home at 606 Chestnut street, Atlanta.

SENATE COMMITTEES IN FAVOR OF SEVERAL BILLS

Several senate committees reported to that body Wednesday morning in regard to certain bills which they have had under consideration during the last few days.

The committee on banks recommended that the bill be passed which makes it a misdemeanor to draw and utter any check, draft or order when the drawee has at the time sufficient funds to meet same.

The committee on county and county matters recommended that a bill to annul and repeal the act creating a board of commissioners of roads and revenues for Charlton county be passed. The senate committee reported favorably on an act creating a board of commisioners of roads and revenues for Ware county, and unfavorably on a bill to change the present fishing laws.

The committee on corporations recommended that the bill amending the Athens, Ga., charter, approved August 24, 1872, be passed.

The committee on agriculture recommended the passage of a bill which makes more stringent the provisions of the present pure food and drug act.

These bills as recommended will come up before the senate within the next few days for a second reading. Not one reached a second reading Wednesday.

Suffragettes Can't Decide on Uniform For Women Coppers

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, July 9.—It is the opinion of Chicago suffragists that a woman policeman—Mayor Harrison has asked that ten of them be appointed—should have the following qualifications:

She must be "husky."
She must have nerve.
She must have had experience in social service.
She must understand young people.
She must have common sense.
She must have ideals.

The demand for a corps of policewomen has created considerable excitement among the many thousands of new women voters. The suffragists were keen in their discussion of what uniform the policewoman should wear. All agreed she should have a star. The more militant believed that she should carry a revolver, but none took kindly to the idea of a policewoman swinging a club.

Mrs. Gertrude Howe Britton, of the Juvenile Protective league, who was chiefly influential in persuading the mayor that Chicago needs policewomen, asserted that the women officers should not be armed, but "should make their way with women's weapons, the chief of which is common sense."

Atlanta-Made "Movie" Shown for First Time

The first of series of moving pictures made in Atlanta by Charles M. Seay, the "Belasco of the movie world," was shown in a Peachtree street theater Tuesday.

The story is one full of heart interest and was graphically depicted on the screen. It shows a southern sharp shooter in the trenches who is wounded and helpless being assisted by a union soldier. The two men become fast friends while the southern man is a captive. When he is exchanged the union man gives him a button from his coat and he in turn does the same for his friend. Years after the union soldier comes to Atlanta on a visit but has the misfortune to lose his money just before arriving at the terminal station. He is shown at the terminal a stranger in a strange land without funds when his friend of war times happens along. The recognition is mutual. The southern man takes his benefactor of the battle field to his home.

An automobile ride follows that shows many interesting features. The Grady monument is shown with the two old men standing at its base. They are again seen at the peace monument at Piedmont park, at the Soldier's Home, the state capitol, the girl's high school and other places. An excellent view is given of Peachtree street taken from the top of the Fourth National Bank building.

AGED "TIGER" SENTENCED; SOLD ONLY TO NEGROES

J. R. Persons, an aged white man, was given a sentence of six months in the chain gang without the privilege of paying a fine, when he was arraigned in the city criminal court before Judge Andrew Calhoun Wednesday morning.

According to the testimony of Detectives Chewning and Sturdivant, Persons was operating at 319 East Hunter street probably the most flourishing blind tiger in the city. His customers, they all declared, were negroes and he refused to sell to white people.

When they made the arrest they found sixty gallons of whisky and a regular cash drawer full of the change taken in the day.

In addition they found about $1,000 in greenbacks on the prisoner, they alleged.

ARNOLD CALLS ATLANTA BAR ASSN. MEETING

Reuben R. Arnold, president of the Atlanta Bar association, has called a meeting of the attorneys of the county to consider a bill to secure another superior court judge for Fulton county.

The bar meeting will be held in Judge Reid's court room on the fourth floor of the old city hall building, at 9:30 o'clock, Thursday morning.

The meeting was originally scheduled for 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, but at the appointed hour so few attorneys were present that it was postponed until Thursday.

The bill will be introduced in the legislature by Representative John Y. Smith just as soon as the consensus of opinion of the members of the Atlanta bar is determined.

CORDELE SOON TO HAVE NEW PASSENGER STATION

This order follows negotiations which have been conducted for several months by Commissioner Joseph F. Gray with the three railroads entering Cordele and with the citizens and auhorities of that city.

CHAMBER TO DISCUSS INTERURBAN CAR LINE

Anderson, S. C., Proposition to Be Considered by Directors on Thursday

Among other matters to be taken up Wednesday afternoon by the directors of the chamber of commerce will be an overture from the chamber of commerce of Anderson, S. C., asking the Atlanta chamber to co-operate in the proposed building of an interurban trolley line from Anderson to Atlanta.

Already a line has been built from North Carolina as far as Anderson, and has been projected from Anderson for a considerable distance toward Atlanta, the land owners being much interested and indicating a willingness to give the necessary right-of-way.

It is understood that the Atlanta chamber will be disposed to co-operate if a practical project is advanced.

Burglar Picks Court House, Churches and Morgues for Forays

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

COLUMBUS, Ga., July 9.—Will Smith, a burly negro, weighing 250 pounds, and 55 years old, is believed to be the mysterious burglar who has been operating in Columbus during the past month, breaking into the temple of justice, the Church of the Holy Family and local undertaking establishments.

Smith is behind the bars and has already confessed to burglarizing the church. He was arrested by the police department last night on suspicion of robbing the high school building, which was entered and ransacked a few nights ago.

The negro admits that he is an exconvict, having served a long term before for burglary. He appears to be a professional and the police believe him to be the mysterious thief who has been operating here so long.

Pays Interest From July 1st on All Moneys Deposited by July 10th

It is estimated that $105,000.00 was paid by the banks in Atlanta as interest on Savings Accounts for the past six months. What amount did you get? Idle money is unprofitable. Make every dollar count for something.

The Georgia Savings Bank and Trust Company will pay interest at the rate of 4 per cent per annum, from July 1st, on all amounts deposited on or before July 10th. All depositors of this, the Oldest Savings Bank in Atlanta, are requested to bring their pass books to the bank to have the July interest posted.

If you have not a Savings Account, start one with them. It only takes $1.00 to get a pass book.

Negro Lad Acquitted

MACON, Ga., July 9.—Ross Morris, a nine-year-old negro boy, has been acquitted of shooting and killing Willie Perkins, a thirteen-year-old negro boy, last May. The defense contended that the defendant was too young to be convicted on such a charge.

Morris killed Perkins while they were engaged in a fight about a shotgun.

Goodbye Dandruff

Parisian Sage cleanses the hair; nourishes it; stops falling hair and itching scalp; removes dandruff with one application.

What a delight to have a beautiful head of hair, soft, lustrous, abundant and free from dandruff.

If your hair is not as soft and beautiful, or as fresh and full as that of some friend, why not try what you admire, don't give up and think you can't help it.

Do what she does—take care of your hair. Don't neglect it. Don't starve as much as your plants need watering.

If your hair is too thin, make it grow like any other plant. If it is too dry and brittle soften it up—lubricate it. If you have dandruff it is because the scalp is too dry and flakes off. Freshen up the scalp and dandruff will go.

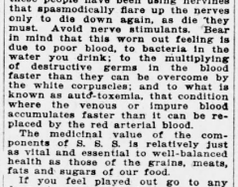
Parisian Sage, sold in fifty cent bottles at druggists and toilet counters, is just what you need to make your scalp healthy and immediately remove dandruff—your hair wavy, lustrous and abundant.

Parisian Sage stops itching head; cleanses the hair of dust and excessive oil; takes away the dryness and brittleness; makes it seem twice as abundant, and beautifies it until it is soft and lustrous.

You cannot be disappointed in Parisian Sage. Always sold on money back if not satisfied plan. Look for the "Girl with Auburn Hair" on the package. Recommended and sold by Jacobs' Pharmacy.—(Advt.)

Wan, Weary and Worn Out

If You Feel Fagged to a Finish and Utterly Used Up Here is Quick Relief.



S. S. S. Makes Your Blood Corpuscles Unite for Mutual Protection.

Half the people you meet complain of weary muscles, stagnant brain, languid nerves, and an unconquerable desire to lay down and just quit. Most of these people have been using nervines that spasmodically flare up the nerves only to die down again, as die they must. Avoid nerve stimulants. Bear in mind that this worn out feeling is due to poor blood, to bacteria in the water you drink; to the multiplying of destructive germs in the blood faster than they can be overcome by the white corpuscles; and to what is known as autd-toxemia, that condition where the venous or impure blood accumulates faster than it can be replaced by the red arterial blood.

The medicinal value of the components of S. S. S. is relatively just as vital and essential to well-balanced health as those of the proteins, meats, fats and sugars of our food.

If you feel played out go to any drug store and ask for a bottle of S. S. S., Swift's Sure Specific. Here is a remedy that gets at work in a twinkling; it just naturally rushes right into your blood, scatters germs right and left, up and down and sideways.

You feel better at once, not from a stimulant, not from the action of drugs, but from the rational effect of a natural medicine just as active and just as timely as to a man who has been lost in the mountains, is about starved and comes across a settler just cooking a savory meal of good honest beef. Do not neglect to get a bottle of S. S. S. to-day. It will make you feel better in just a few minutes. It is prepared only in the laboratory of The Swift Specific Co., 187 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Send for their free book telling of the many strange conditions that afflict the human family by reason of impoverished blood.

Surveying

Mr. Pester—Here! What are you checking those stones for? Training for a militant suffragette?

Mrs. Pester—Why, don't you remember the agent told us the house was just a stone's throw from the station? Well, I'm trying to find it.

A Blessing to Victims Of "Sore Foot" Agony

The following is said to be the surest and quickest cure known to science for all foot ailments: "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of warm water. Soak the feet in this for fully fifteen minutes, gently rubbing the sore parts." The effect is really wonderful. All soreness goes instantly; the feet feel delightful. Corns and calouses can be peeled right off. It gives immediate relief for sore bunions, sweaty, smelly and aching feet. A twenty-five cent box of Calocide is said to be sufficient to cure the worst feet. It works through the pores and removes the cause of the trouble. Don't waste time on worthless remedies. Any druggist has Calocide compound in stock or he can get it in a few hours from his wholesale house.—(Advt.)

Mrs. J. B. G., 1. Dummies in No. 18. 2. You could not use extra pictures and answers with the Answer Book, as only ten answers are allowed each contestant.

Mrs. J. L. W., Dandalsville, Ga. 1. Decide No. 58 yourself. 2. No title would be used unless it appears in the catalogue and if the title is wrong in the catalogue it would be listed that way, do be the catalogue. 3. F. F. F., Monticello, Ga. 1. In answer to G. J. the question was, "Are they men or boys in No. 48 and No. 60, and if answer could be given in No. 60 as it is No. 48." 2. In answer to I. C., on 28, the painter made it read "farm" instead of "there." 3. The number of words in No. 62 would not make any difference in title. Answers are given to help contestants and not to confuse them, but typographical errors are bound to creep in. If contestants would confine themselves to questions that would bring out anything not clear in the catalogue and not try to use questions through that would give the correct title, it would be better for all concerned.

WATER FAMINE DANGER REPORT ONLY SCARECROW

People Should Economize, However, Because of Repair Work on Pump

The published report that Atlanta is in danger of a water famine is not true. It is true, however, that the people should economize in their use of water.

The situation is as follows:

At the river station are three pumps. The large one, named the Frank P. Rice, has a capacity of 18,000,000 gallons every twenty-four hours. The two small ones have a combined capacity of 18,000,000 gallons every twenty-four hours.

The Frank P. Rice, which has given more or less trouble from the beginning of its career, has now reached the point where it must be overhauled and repaired thoroughly. This will take five or six weeks.

In the meantime the two small pumps will be the city's main dependence for water. At the present rate of consumption, it takes something like 23,000,000 gallons every twenty-four hours from the river to supply the demand. This leaves a deficiency of 5,000,000 gallons between what is necessary and what the two small pumps will supply.

To take care of this deficiency, the two reservoirs at the Hemphill station are full, and they hold a total of 401,000,000 gallons. About half of this, or 200,000,000 gallons, is available for use. To use below that would make the water muddy.

This 200,000,000 gallons reserve will last forty days, at the rate of using 5,000,000 gallons of it per day to supply the deficiency. This probably will be time enough to repair the Frank P. Rice, barring unexpected delays in the work.

The reason why the people should economize is the possibility of an accident to one or both of the small pumps. So far as is humanly possible, such an accident has been insured against by putting the pumps in firstclass running order before shutting down the Frank P. Rice. But any piece of machinery is liable to go wrong, and it is this possibility which the people themselves should guard against by economizing in the use of water.

CITY WILL ECONOMIZE.

Believing that the practice of economy in the use of water should begin at home, Mayor Woodward called the heads of the various departments into conference in his office Wednesday morning and laid the situation before them. He emphasized the fact that there is no cause for alarm, and said he did not want economy to be practiced to the extent of endangering health or crippling the public service. He thought, however, that there are various places where the use of water can be cut down, and especially that the waste of water can and should be stopped.

In all of this the department heads agreed with the mayor fully, and reports from them showed that perhaps 2,000,000 gallons per day can be saved without in any way proving detrimental.

COMMITTEE TO CONSIDER A., B. & A. PURCHASE

Senator A .H. Foster, of the Twenty-seventh, offered a resolution in the senate Wednesday morning which calls the attention of that body to the W. & A. railroad problem, and the question of completing it to the sea by means of purchasing the A., B. & A. road. The resolutio nwas referred to the W. & A. committee.

Negro Switchman Hurt

Charley Wesley, a negro switchman, attempted to board the caboose of a moving freight train at Yonge and Decatur streets Wednesday morning, and was thrown beneath the wheels, his right hand being severed at the wrist.

Getting Mixed in Art

(Cleveland Plain Dealer.)

Occasionally Homer and the other reputable classics nod in the Boston environments.

A woman in Rhode Island wrote to the head of a Boston institution that advances art—all of them are supposed to—and asked when and where she could buy a Gilbert Stuart portrait—subject immaterial.

This recalls the Cleveland woman who said that a woman on Euclid avenue had a "full length Rembrandt" in her collection—but she had forgotten who the artist was.

A Great Market

The best market is the one that is easily accessible to the greatest number of people.

Journal Want Columns are easily accessible to all the people and it costs but a trifle to reach them.

People seek the market where the greatest variety of goods is to be found.

That is why so great a percentage of the people read The Journal Wants, for they contain the needs of a great community.

Each individual Journal Want Ad is a merchant crying his or her particular wants or needs.

The people of the entire community are the customers.

This is an ideal mart, offering the greatest measure of opportunity for all concerned.

The man or woman who has industry to buy or sell, cannot afford to slight the great market of The Journal Want Columns.

SUBSTITUTE FOR SUNDAY BALL IN WEEKLY HOLIDAY

Grocers and Butchers Form Club to Bring About Wednesday Closing Generally

The retail grocers and butchers of Atlanta organized a Wednesday closing club Tuesday night at a banquet at the Hotel Ansley, the object being to induce all the retail stores of every kind to take a half holiday during the summer months of 1914.

Already the grocers and butchers are closing on Wednesday afternoon, having commenced on the first Wednesday in June and celebrated the day with a grand parade through the city, and now merchants in other lines are joining in the movement.

Francis E. Kamper, one of the originators of the movement and toastmaster at the banquet, predicted that the department stores will close on Wednesday afternoon next summer instead of Saturday afternoon, as they do now.

Charles S. Robison, speaking for the furniture men, said half of them are closing on Wednesday afternoon now, and he felt sure they will all close next summer.

O. T. Camp, a prime mover in the organization, said the Wednesday half holiday lessens the demand for Sunday baseball by giving the employes a diversion in the middle of the week.

H. C. Hall, speaking for the employes, said the men on the firing line do better work in the heated season by reason of the Wednesday half holiday.

It was announced that Wednesday, July 16, when Atlanta plays Montgomery, will be Grocers' day at Ponce de Leon. The grocers will undertake to sell 2,000 grandstand tickets, and a percentage of the proceeds will go to defray the expenses of the parade.

Following are the officers of the club elected Tuesday evening:

ESCAPED CONVICT GIVEN PARDON BY GOV. BROWN?

Barnesville Man Writes Letter Concerning Pardon to Tony Hightower

Barnesville, Ga., July 9, 1913.

Editor The Journal: I would like to inquire through your paper as to the present status of a paroled convict named Tony Hightower. Dr. W. J. Flanders, state prison inspector, paid Barnesville a hurried visit recently, bringing with him a full pardon for Tony Hightower, who was paroled to Mr. H. H. Grey, of this city, in 1912.

The pardon was signed by Governor Joseph M. Brown and dated June 18, 1913. The governor stated in his pardon that it was based on the fact that said paroled convict had fully complied with all the terms of the parole law, and on account of his good conduct said pardon was issued.

Dr. Flanders said that he knew nothing of the pardon until the papers were handed him by the secretary of the prison board with instructions to deliver the pardon to Mr. Grey to turn over to Tony Hightower.

When he approached Mr. Grey, to whom the negro was paroled, Grey informed him that Tony violated the terms of his parole last October by getting drunk repeatedly and in other ways, and had escaped to parts unknown about the first of last November.

Mr. Grey informed Inspector Flanders that he notified the prison commission at once of his conduct and escape, and that he, Mr. Grey, had offered a reward for his recapture.

It is somewhat of a puzzle to know how he got a pardon based on his general good conduct and full compliance with the law. And then, when we remember how very careful Governor Brown claimed to be about pardoning any one without looking carefully into their record; and then when we are told that parties from different parts of the state were there seeking pardons fully recommended by the prison commissioners and denied by one man, the retiring governor.

Is it possible that Governor Brown has "strained at a gnat and swallowed a great big camel?"

Is it not strange that Governor Brown would refuse pardons recommended by our prison commissioners, as conscientious a lot of men as there is in Georgia, and find time to look up and pardon an escaped convict without any recommendation at all? And remember, good people, that this negro is now and has been since last November, an escaped convict. Why should he have a pardon?

I ask Governor Brown and the good people of Georgia for an intelligent answer. Respectfully,

S. M. HOWARD.

ASKS TO BE ALLOWED TO CARRY ICE ON CARS

A hearing upon a petition to compel the Georgia Railway and Power company to rescind its rule prohibiting passengers from taking ice on the street cars of Atlanta unless the ice is kept in a leak-prof container, will engage the attention of the state railroad commission Wednesday morning.

H. V. Casey, of Atlanta, has filed a formal complaint against the rule and has requested the railroad commission to issue an order which will compel the street car company to transport passengers carrying ice, even though the ice is not carried in a container.

FIFTH REGIMENT LEAVES FOR CAMP AT ST. SIMONS

600 Men Will Spend Ten Days in Maneuvers and Frolic at Seashore

Atlanta saw the last of its own Fifth regiment for ten days to come Tuesday night, when the regiment left for the annual encampment at St. Simons Island after a farewell parade through the downtown section of the city.

Starting from the armory, the boys of the regiment marched up Edgewood avenue to Pryor street, up Pryor street to Houston street, to Peachtree street to Whitehall street, to Mitchell street, to Pryor street, and thence to the Union station. They were under command of Colonel E. E. Pomeroy, and marched the distance to strains of martial music.

The regiment makes the trip in two special trains over the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railroad, the men in day coaches and the officers in Pullmans. Immediately upon the arrival at Brunswick Wednesday the men will enter special boats and be taken across the sea to the island, where a dip in the surf will be enjoyed.

By Wednesday night the camp will have been pitched. Captain F. H. Lichtenwalter, regimental commissary, preceded the regiment to the island.

Boys of Fifth Regiment Leave Brunswick for Island

By T. J. BRYSON.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., July 9.—The first section of the special train carrying the Fifth regiment reached Brunswick shortly before 7 o'clock this morning. The second section, bearing the second and third battalions, developed engine trouble just north of Fitzgerald and reached here more than two hours late. The trips were without further incidents.

The members of the regiment are in the best of spirits and practically all had left Brunswick for St. Simons Island by noon. Every tent will be pitched and camp life running smoothly along by nightfall.

Colonel E. E. Pomeroy, commanding, predicts the most successful encampment in the regiment's history.

BURN $6,000 MORTGAGE ON ALTAR OF CHURCH

A $6,000 mortgage will be burned on the altar of St. Paul's Methodist church next Sunday morning in celebration of the paying off of the last debt on the church since it moved into its new building two years ago, owing $22,000.

Since that time the church has increased its membership greatly, nearly 200 being added to the congregation since last Christmas. Preceding the burning of the mortgage, the church people will celebrate the event next Wednesday evening with an old-fashioned "love feast."

As I may never know who all were actuated by the spirit of human kindness to labor and toil during the hours of that awful night, I beg leave to express through your paper to one and all, my deepest feeling of gratitude and appreciation. Sincerely,

Nine Get Pardons

Eight men and one woman, sentenced for murder or manslaughter, were paroled, and a number of minor criminals freed.

WARDEN OF OWLS' AFFAIR IS HELD FOR "GUN-TOTING"

Recorder Frees Woman and Scares Deputies by Holding Man for Carrying Pistol

The case against Mrs. Lucy Ballew, principal in the sensational shooting in the Owls club last Sunday, was dismissed Tuesday by the recorder, but A. C. Thompson, the victim of the shooting, a chaingang guard, was bound over to the criminal court under a $200 bond, charged with carrying a concealed weapon.

Thompson pleaded that as a deputy warden at the convict camp, and as an officer legally deputized by Sheriff Mangum, that he had a right to carry a weapon. Thompson also intimated that he always carried the gun.

"What business did you have with a revolver while you were drinking at the Owls club?" asked the recorder; "you were not guarding convicts or prisoners. You were with a lady and I can't see that you needed a revolver."

The action of the recorder is expected to spread consternation in the ranks of the many special bailiffs and guards about the city, practically all of whom carry weapons.

Sheriff Wheeler Mangum, who deputized Thompson, when asked about the matter said:

"I tell every bailiff, when I deputize him that I can give him no right to carry a weapon, and advise him to get a license from the ordinary and then carry his pistol in his hand."

Facts relatives to Thompson's membership in the Owls club were not brought out in the recorder's court because of objections of Thompson's attorneys. Before the hearing was completed, the two officers who made the case, were advised to probe the Owls club by the recorder.

THREE COPS ARE FIRED FOR DRINKING ON DUTY

Three Others Suspended and Two Acquitted—Startling Revelations Are Made

Disgusting revelations of sordid associations among members of the city police force on the one hand and negro women inmates of a dance hall or resort on Auburn avenue, on the other hand, were laid before the city police commission Tuesday night, and resulted in the discharge of three policemen, the suspension of three others for a period of ninety days, and the exoneration of two, with the exoneration of a third on charges not connected with those related to the negro resort.

The drinking of whisky in the place of Ola Bradley, negress, 129 Auburn avenue, was charged against the policemen by two other members of the force, vice squad men, detained to watch it by superior officers when its reputation as a blind tiger patronized by policemen came to their ears. The commission adjudged the evidence sufficient to convict three of them and involve three others.

The policemen discharged were Robert A. Wood, O. P. Born and E. C. Folds. Wood was discharged from the force a number of months ago for beating a prisoner, but was reinstated after a time. His attorney asked the board to accept his resignation, stating that Wood had gone to Houston, Tex., to engage in business.

The policemen suspended were R. T. David, J. J. Jackson and C. H. Bailey.

Patrolmen J. A. McDaniel and R. T. Evans, charged with neglect of duty in not having reported their fellow policemen for visiting the resort, were found not guilty.

Patrolman I. E. Jackson, charged with abusive treatment of a theater patron, was found not guilty.

All of the policemen accused in the negro resort matter were represented by attorneys, Messrs. J. Y. Smith, W. M. Smith, Harvey Hill, Aldine Chambers and others appearing in that capacity. The verdict of the commission was not returned until 1:30 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Plain Clothes Officers Moon and Adams, of the "vice squad," were the witnesses against the accused officers. They testified that they had operated under instructions from Sergeant Barfield, who, in turn, testified that he was directed by Capt. W. F. Terry.

HOUSE TO AGREE WITH GOV. ON APPROPRIATIONS

Plan to Keep General Bill Confined to Constitutional Funds Is Approved

The first intimation of the position to be taken by the house committee on appropriations came Tuesday in the shape of a rough draft of the general appropriations bill, providing no items save those expressly fixed by law. The plan was outlined in a resolution of the subcommittee composed of A. B. Greene, N. F. Culpepper, L. S. Ledbetter and Crawford Wheatley. The resolution is:

"Resolved, That the general appropriation bill shall contain nothing except the appropriations provided by law as contemplated by the constitution of the state, and that all special appropriations and appropriations asking for increased amounts shall be provided by special bills."

This resolution received unanimous approval of the house committee, and a rough draft of the general appropriations bill will be presented to the house Wednesday morning.

The plan of the committee, if carried out, will cut off the state institutions without a dollar, with the exception of the Franklin college branch of the state university and sanitarium for the insane. An analysis of the resolution, however, will bring out the fact that appropriations for other institutions and the appropriations for state officers may be obtained through the introduction of separate bills, prepared especially for that purpose.

GOVERNOR SLATON'S IDEAS.

This action of the committee is construed as being in accordance with the wishes of Governor Slaton as indicated in his inaugural message—that is, the bill be limited solely to the necessary expenses of the state. It is thus readily seen that the governor can deal separately with appropriations for institutions not provided for in the general appropriation bill, or in the constitution, and can veto or approve them.

The institutions not included in the rough draft of the bill are the academy for the blind at Macon, the deaf and dumb institute at Cave Spring, the Soldiers' home, the state tuberculosis sanitarium at Alto, the summer school at Athens, the state college of agriculture, the School of Technology in Atlanta, the Georgia Normal and Industrial college, the law school at Athens, the Georgia Normal and Industrial school for girls at Milledgeville, the school at Dahlonega and the congressional district agricultural schools.

NEW COUNTIES HEARD.

Three new county propositions brought before the house committee on constitutional amendments were considered Tuesday. The committee will recommend the creation of Barrow county and withhold a decision on the Candler and Stonewall counties.

The new county of Barrow, the creation of which will go to the house with a favorable recommendation, will be formed from parts of Jackson, Gwinnett and Walton. Candler and Stonewall plan to take slices of practically the same territory, cutting into Tattnall, Emanuel and Bulloch, which has resolved the matter into more of a fight for the county seat than for the county. Candler county designates Metter as its county seat, and the advocates of Stonewall would have Stillmore for their court center.

When the fight before the committee commenced at 2 o'clock the house chamber was filled with advocates of the new county propositions and as many more who were opposed to their creation which would cut stripe from their own counties.

A noticeable feature of the hearing was the widespread sentiment against the creation of any new counties, evidenced by continuous applause for arguments against them, that at times bordered on a demonstration, despite the continual rapping of the chairman's gavel.

The Barrow county proposition was the first to be heard. A storm of protests came up when the time limit of one hour for each county proposition was made known. After much discussion, the committee decided to extend the time to forty-five minutes for each side, which was agreed to.

Bills on tax equalization occupied practically all of Tuesday afternoon's session of the committee on ways and means, and before that body adjourned Chairman Akin appointed a sub-committee to look into all of the various bills bearing on this subject that have been introduced in the house.

The members of the sub-committees are as follows: L. R. Akin, of Glynn; L. J. Cooper, of Ware; J. E. Sheppard, of Sumter; F. A. Lipscomb, of Clarke, and Dr. A. S. J. Stovall, of Elbert.

Pending tax equalization bills that are to be considered are those of Representatives Lipscomb, Sheppard and Ledbetter. A careful comparison of them will be made, and it is understood that there is a probability of a new bill, containing the best features of all, being drafted and presented to the main committee for its consideration. A bill by Mr. Beck, of Carroll, providing for tax assessors in each militia district will also be considered.

THEATERS

Grand—Talking Pictures.
FORSYTH—Vaudeville.
BIJOU—Tabloid Musical Comedy.

The Forsyth bill for this week continues to attract the usual large gatherings. The attendance at both matinee and night performances indicated that the show had scored the hit that has been accredited to it.

The sketches of Eva Taylor and Company are unusual in their originality, and the piano and singing novelty of Hines and Fox records a distinctive hit for each performance. For a summer-time vaudeville offering, the management has certainly secured unusually clever talent, and the indication is that a record breaking week for attendance during such a hot spell will be recorded.

Next week's headliners and the program promises clever entertainment. Valerie Bergere, who has well received at The Grand early this season in the Japanese act, will appear with her own company in a new playlet "Judgment."

The Grand is playing to good attendance daily from 2:30 in the afternoon until 10:30 at night, offering continuous exhibition of straight run motion pictures and a selection of the best quality of talking pictures.

This policy seems to have grown popular in a few hours, for the house is well filled at all times. Everything is being done for the comfort of the theatregoer, and the daily change of program is very inviting.

The management of the Bijou seems to realize the importance of keeping their performances up to the highest standard during the mid-summer season of musical comedy and vaudeville, which they are now presenting to their patrons and this week they are offering "Along Broadway."

The company numbers thirty well-known people in the musical comedy and vaudeville world, and from the rise of the curtain to the finale there is not one dull moment. Two immense audiences witnessed the performances yesterday, and every indication points to the standing room only sign for the balance of the week. The usual matinees will be given daily, with two night performances at 7:30 and 9.

ASSEMBLY TO BE ASKED FOR EXPOSITION FUND

The state legislature will be asked to make an appropriation of $100,000 to take care of the Georgia exhibit at the 1915 exposition in San Francisco celebrating the opening of the Panama canal.

That was decided Tuesday, when the commission appointed for the purpose of considering this question met in the office of the state geologist. Fifteen commissioners were present and all were unanimously in favor of adopting a resolution calling for this amount.

Following the adoption of the resolution another was called on on Governor Slaton to urge the need of an appropriation. The governor seemed to be impressed by the attitude of the commission, but neither made any promise nor was asked to give any.

Defining an Epigram

(Washington Star.)

"Father," said the small boy, "what is an epigram?"

"An epigram," replied Mr. Growcher, "is usually a brief but commonplace remark made by somebody who has been well advertised."

THIRTEEN-YEAR-OLD BOY CHARGED WITH MURDER

Relatives of Playmate Who Was Killed Say Act Was Premeditated

Frank Barton, a thirteen-year-old boy, faces a murder charge, and is probably the youngest person to be formally accused of murder in this county and committed on that charge to the grand jury by a magistrate.

On July 2 young Barton stabbed thirteen-year-old James Edgar, of 81 Kennedy street, to death. Both boys claimed it was an accident, and the victim is said to have begged as he was dying that his playmate be not "whipped" for the accident.

Despite this, the little Barton boy was arraigned before Judge Edgar H. Orr Wednesday morning on a warrant drawn by A. R. Edgar, father of the dead boy, and a formal murder case made out against him.

The alleged motive for the killing, as introduced in the testimony, was a quarrel, which occurred between the two boys a month prior to the killing.

Eyewitnesses testified that young Barton, holding a long dirk in his hand, grabbed his little victim by the throat, and, saying "This is how I would do if I was fighting," stabbed him in the throat. The little Edgar boy's neck was badly gashed, and while the wielder of the dirk wept bitterly, he was rushed to the Grady hospital, where he died the following day.

It is said that relatives of the boy killed will prosecute the case vigorously, and it is certain that an effort to send the accused to the reformatory, if nothing more, will be made.

The witnesses, it is said, say that the killing was not an accident, but premeditated, and that the little victim was simply trying to conceal the fact of his difficulty.

Young Barton, who lives at 24 Medrim street and is a son of Mrs. A. T. Taylor, has been held in the juvenile detention home on Central avenue since the tragedy.

No action could be taken by the juvenile court authorities because of the law on the crime with which he is charged, and the father proceeded through the justice court.

Latest "Isms" Appeal To Atlanta Readers; Cubism is Popular

Atlanta's reading public just now is interested in a variety of topics, ranging from cubism and futurism to infant mortality.

This was brought out Tuesday evening at the regular monthly meeting of the board of trustees of the Carnegie library, when routine business was discussed and the board committees made reports on the work being done by the library.

Patrons have sought information on the "blue sky" laws, meaning of "Quo Vadis," garden swimming pools, certified milk, infant mortality, soil surveys of Georgia counties, auto intoxication and auto infection, cubism and futurism in art, inheritance tax, medical mission, plans for bungalows, suggestions for celebration of a second wedding anniversary, Cherokee Indians, Japanese land ownership and woman suffrage. A glance over this list shows that there are but few subjects uppermost in the public mind at the present time on which the library has not been called to supply material.

The report of the librarian showed that a total of 24,629 volumes were taken out during the past month, and that 362 new members were added. Over 7,000 people used the reference and reading rooms, of whom 416 came on Sunday afternoons. The fees turned over to the city treasury for books kept over time amounted to $155.75.

Three new assistants were appointed to the library staff, Misses Catherine Waler, Isabel Stevens and Emily Kemp. These new assistants will enable the library service to keep pace with the growing demands made by the public.

Trustees W. M. Everett, Emile Brietenbucher, W. B. Disbro, W. M. Etheredge, W. W. Gaines, T. B. Gay, J. H. Johnston, Harrison Jones, K. G. Matheson, Marvin Underwood and George H. Boynton, were present.

CHAS. A. WHITE LEADS FOR TREASURER OF ELKS

Lacks Only 165 Votes of Election—Edward Leach Grand Exalted Ruler

(By Associated Press.)

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 9.—A second ballot for the election of a grand exalted treasurer and the report of the committee appointed to consider the question of the erection of a national home at Bedford, Va., was the chief business before the grand lodge of Elks this morning. Charles A. White, of Chicago, led for the grand treasurer on the first ballot yesterday against three opponents, lacking only 156 votes of election.

Grand Treasurer Edward Leach, of New York, was elected grand exalted ruler of the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks to succeed Thomas B. Mills, of Superior, Wis. Mr. Leach was opposed by J. Cookman Boyd, of Baltimore. The vote was: Leach, 1,119; Boyd, 392. Grand Secretary Fred C. Robinson, of Grand Duke, Ia., was re-elected in a three-cornered fight.

Other officers chosen were:

Grand esteemed leading knight, P. H. Shields, Clarksburg, W. Va.; grand esteemed loyal knight, H. H. Jennings, Bridgeport, Conn.; grand esteemed lecturing knight, E. M. Dickerman, Tucson, Ariz.; grand inner guard, Edwin J. Kelly, Cheyenne, Wyo.; grand trustee for two years to fill vacancy caused by the death of Mayor Charles C. Schmidt, of Wheeling, W. Va., James R. Nicholson, Springfield, Mass.

Judge John J. Mitchell, of St. Paul, Minn., was appointed to the grand forum by Grand Exalted Ruler Mills, to succeed Ferry A. Shaner, of Sistersville, Pa.

prohibited from expending money or incurring liabilities or acquiring property not in the operation of its railroad or in the legitimate improvement, extension or development of that railroad.

"No interstate railroad should be permitted to lease or purchase any other railroad, nor to acquire the stocks or securities of any other railroads, nor to guarantee the same, directly or indirectly, without the approval of the federal government.

"No stocks or bonds should be issued by an interstate railroad except for the purposes sanctioned in the two preceding paragraphs, and none should be issued without the approval of the federal government."

Commissioners Clements and Marble submitted a concurring opinion, in which they "agree heartily with the report," but make their position clear as to some of the issues mentioned.

Concerning the merger of the New Haven and the Boston and Maine, they assert: "This is a grave phase of the subject that should be left to the congress. Just as the issues under the anti-trust law have been left to the courts. If it were properly to be considered here, however, we would give weight to the suggestion that the merger has so overloaded the executive heads of the entire aggregation as to impair not only correct and economize financial administration, but also efficiency and safety of operation. The Boston and Maine and the New Haven are shown by the report to be separable organically. They are not one system, but two systems under one management. Therefore closer superintendence, with correspondingly gains in efficiency and safety, might be expected from a dissolution of the merger.

"No competition between carriers is unimportant. Moreover, any suppression of competition involves larger issues, which must be discussed by those who are charged with the duty of legislation.

"The proposed continuation of the inquiry into the matter of increases in rates ought to be held in advance of the posting of such rates for the information of the shippers who must pay them. The report strongly suggests that increased net income for the Boston and Maine should be secured by a reform in expenditures rather than by an increase of rates."

ORIGIN OF INQUIRY.

The inquiry resulting in today's report was begun about a year ago by the commission upon its own initiative, in consequence of numerous and persistent complaints of the railroad rates, regulations and service in New England. The carriers particularly investigated were the New York, New Haven and Hartford, the Boston and Maine, and the Maine Central. Months were devoted to examination of books and accounts and thirty-seven days were devote to public hearings, in the course of which more than 6,000 pages of testimony were taken.

story told by Crawford. In a small grip in his possession when he was arrested was found a miscellaneous assortment of articles, but no personal apparel. Among the assortment were a glass cutter and a leather billy loaded with lead.

The address given by Crawford as his room, 234 1-2 Marietta street, is the address where Turpin was rooming when he was caught in the Kirkwood safe-blowing.

Crawford said that he was in Scottdale visiting a matron and her son who live there. A letter addressed to him in Scottdale was found among his belongings.

In addition to the robbery at Scottdale Mills, the postal inspectors here have been notified of a robbery at the post-office at Green Cove Springs, Fla., a large office near Jacksonville.

These jobs are believed to be the work of migratory yeggs now on their way north from their winter quarters in Florida.

Shortly before 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon Crawford was taken to the county jail in Decatur and then was released without further suspicion connecting him with the case. He established that he had spent Tuesday night at the residence of Mrs. A. T. aGrner in Decatur. Hoye Garner, her son, arrested during the forenoon at Decatur on suspicion, was expected to be liberated early Wednesday afternoon.

SUFFRAGISTS GIVEN USE OF HOUSE HALL, BUT SENATE SIDESTEPS

flatly to allow the "votes for women" advocates to meet there.

MRS. WHITESIDE'S CARD.

Following is Mrs. Whiteside's card:

"Atlanta, Ga., July 9, 1913.

"Atlanta Journal: The Atlanta Civic league, the only suffrage association in the state that has been recognized by the national, most heartily condemn the drastic measures now being used by Mrs. Mary L. McLendon and her friends. We know to well the ability of our general assembly to show such childish anger, even if our self-respect permitted.

"One woman of Illinois secured the co-operation of their legislature by dignified and statesmanlike measures. When our legislature sees that our women really want the ballot they will be as magnanimous as Illinois.

"The Atlanta Civic league is adding rapidly to its membership. The executive committee have decided to unite directly with the national. This matter will be brought before the league this afternoon for their indorsement. The national are heartily in sympathy with our progressive methods, and proffer any assistance in their power.

(Signed) "MRS. FRANCES S. WHITESIDE.
"Chairman Educational Committee, Atlanta Civic League."

SENATORS INVITED.

While the house of representatives was granting to the Georgia Woman's Suffrage association the use of that hall, the senate, right across the capitol, was arguing for the same question.

The wrangle began immediately after the senate convened, when a message was read inviting the senate to attend the meetings of the suffrage association. The mere question as to whether or not this invitation should be accepted aroused at once a veritable "mountain out of a mole hill" discussion.

It was moved that the invitation be accepted, but hardly had the roll call for the ayes and nays had been started when Senator B. S. Miller, of the Twenty-fourth, proposed that the resolution accepting the invitation be laid on the table.

The vote on Senator Miller's motion had almost reached its conclusion and those in favor and against it were running neck and neck when Senator John T. Allen, of the Twentieth, moved that Senator Miller be allowed to withdraw his motion tabling the resolution of acceptance. The senate voted 17 to 16 in favor of withdrawal.

AGAIN MOVES TO TABLE.

Hardly had this vote been concluded when Senator Stark, of the Thirty-third, renewed the motion tabling the resolution. Again the roll was called. Senators arose right and left to explain their votes. The old arguments for and against woman's suffrage were aired once more. Yet the final count showed that the senators were in favor of tabling the resolution of acceptance by a vote of 22 to 18.

MRS. M'LENDON'S COMMENT.

Mrs. Mary L. McLendon, president of the Georgia Woman's Suffrage association, commented placidly upon each of the details of the day's developments.

"I feel very much gratified that the men at last have come to their senses," said she, anent the concession of its hall by the house of representatives. "And I am glad that they realize that the women have as much right to that hall as themselves and the negroes and cowboys from Washington state.

"That is all right" she continued, commenting upon the senate's repeated refusal to allow the association the use of its own hall. "I am glad they are putting themselves before the people in such an objectionable light. They never will hear the last of this. The women don't like that sort of thing. Some of these days, when the women of Georgia get the ballot, these men will be crying to show them courtesy. When women get the ballot, there will be women taking the places of some of them in those seats.

"Did you ever see such cowards, such idiots?" she inquired when informed that the senate had tabled the invitation to attend the association's meetings. "What are they afraid of? I can't see why they should be so afraid of the mothers of Georgia. Do they fear an uprising of the women, or some such foolish bugaboo as that?

REPLY TO MRS. WHITESIDE.

"Mrs. Whiteside and I do not always think along the same line," said she, commenting upon Mrs. Whiteside's card. "Is it apparent that she has the authority of the Atlanta Civic league for what she says? She has a failing of speaking largely for others—of assuming that they will agree with her. Mrs. Whiteside is not friendly to the cause, of course. She appeared before members of the house. I understand, and requested them to vote against our request for the use of that hall, saying that we have no right to use it. That is not the act of a friend. She calls me a 'militant' suffragette, too, for that matter, and asserts quite positively that I am not suited to the presidency of the Georgia Woman's Suffrage association.

THEY GET A HALL.

Use of the hall of the house of representatives was granted to the Georgia Women's Suffrage association, for its meetings Wednesday and Thursday evenings, by the members of the house Wednesday morning upon the resolution by John Y. Smith, one of the Fulton county delgation.

Vote upon the resolution was taken without roll call and without debate. No one voted against it. Previously an attempt had been made to take it from its regular place on the calendar for the day and pass it at once, but three members objected to tha course without stating their reasons.

WOULD HAVE MET, ANYWAY.

Had the use of the hall been refused the leaders of the suffrage association expected to ask for the privilege of meeting on the steps and walk of the capitol on the Washington street side.

Dodgers were found upon the desks of all the representatives when they convened Wednesday morning, declaring in big type anonymously that "negro politicians were allowed the use of the capitol, but Georgia women were debarred."

PROGRAM OF MEETING.

Either Bishop C. K. Nelson or Rev. George A. Beattie will open the convention Wednesday night with prayer, following which "America" will be sung and the twenty-third Psalm repeated in chorus. Representative John Y. Smith will deliver the address of welcome for Fulton county and Governor Slaton has been asked to welcome the women in behalf of the state. President Marks, of the Georgia federation, will represent the labor forces, and Rev. George A. Beattie the clergy.

Among the women who will address the meeting Wednesday night are Miss Eugenia Estill, Mrs. M. T. McWhorter, Mrs. Susan E. Cunningham and Mrs. Mary L. McLendon, the state president.

ATLANTA YOUTH MAY BE BURNED BOX-CAR VICTIM

A. J. Lycan Goes to Montgomery in Search of Son, Missing for Weeks

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 9.—The local box car mystery loomed up here today again, when A. J. Lycan, 54 Piedmont avenue, Atlanta, reached this city to seek the co-operation of the police in a search for his lost son, Andrew Lycan, who disappeared from Manchester, Ga., about April 22. Mr. Lycan believes his son was the victim of the box car fire in the Mobile and Ohio yards here May 12, when the charred remains ofan unidenified person were taken from the ruins by the police. The body was so badly burned that officials could not tell whether he was a white or negro.

Andrew Lycan left his home following his failure in the laundry business. He was of a despondent temperament. He told his father he was going to Birmingham, but after he left, nothing was heard from him.

The city directory shows Andrew J. Lycan as living at 54 Piedmont avenue, and gives his occupation as a painter, while A. J. Lycan, Jr., is denoted as a clerk in the Gutman laundry, with residence at No. 5 Armstrong street.

HUSBAND HAD 150 LOVE NOTES, SAYS DIVORCEE

Woman Tells Court Her Husband Burned Letters to Destroy "Evidence"

Mrs. Mary W. Bryan, a divorce plaintiff, who got a second verdict from Robert C. Bryan before Superior Judge Bell Wednesday, told an interesting story of the epistilary constancy of a young woman, who evidently was more than interested in her (Mrs. Bryan's) husband.

Mrs. Bryan declared that she found 150 amorous letters to her husband from the same girl, together with a number of excellent photos of the young woman, herself, in her husband's trunk.

She took the letters out and later confronted her husband with them, she said, and then he, sitting on the bed in front of her, burned up al of the "evidence."

The sight of the "burning" letters from another woman to her husband so unnerve her, Mrs. Bryan told the court, that a physician attended her all that night. Her husband, she said, later deserted her.

The principal charge of Mrs. B. G. Whitehurst against B. F. Whitehurst was that he was an inveterate gambler.

The court informed her that gambling is not a ground for divorce in Georgia, and asked if her husband ever struck her.

"He certainly did not," quickly replied the petitioner. She got her decree, however, when her statement that her husband told her that he did not love her was construed as cruel treatment, since he was alleged to have made the remark with the intent to wound.

The suit of Mrs. Mamie Anglin, for alienating whose affections W. R. Jester has been sued for $50,000, against her husband, John T. Anglin, was one of those on the calendar for Wednesday, but not heard because at a late hour attorneys for Anglin, who is in Texas, filed an answer.

In the answer the husband repeats the charge, which he made in the alienation suit against Jester, that the wealthy contractor and Mrs. Anglin traveled from coast to coast together, and that Jester has poisoned Mrs. Anglin's mind against her husband.

LEGISLATURE DECIDES TO VISIT AUGUSTA ON JULY 19

General and Special Appropriation Bills Read in House on Wednesday

Another short session of the house marked the deliberations of that body Wednesday morning, and when adjournment was reached at 11:30 o'clock all business on the calendar for the day had been dispensed with.

The senate amendment of the house resolution presented by Representatives Garlington, Picquet and Olive, of Richmond, inviting the general assembly to be the guests of Augusta, changing the date to July 19 instead of July 16, was passed without opposition.

The general appropriations bill, sponsored by Representative Crawford Wheatley, of Sumter, chairman of the appropriations committee, read for the first time, carries all legal appropriations necessary for the expense of the state government and for the maintenance of all state institutions under the constitution.

Along with this bill there appeared others of a similar nature providing for appropriations for institutions, pensions and salaries of state officials not included in the general appropriations measure.

There was another flood of local and general bills and a number came up for and were granted a second reading. There were no bills presented for passage.

The house adjourned until 10 o'clock Thursday morning.

HOTEL MAN SUBPENAED IN VICE STORY PROBE

A subpena in blank was served upon the management of the Brittain hotel by the police Wednesday morning, directing its representative (probably the night clerk, according to the police,) to appear in recorder's court Wednesday afternoon as a witness in the charges against Hattie Smith, Lena Barnhart, Clyde Cox and Elijah Murray, the negro bellboy of the Cumberland hotel. Upon the admission of Hattie Smith, she registered at the Brittain hotel and spent a night there. Detectives inspected the register and were said to have reported that they had found on it the name which Hattie Smith said she signed there.

A determined effort was to be made in court by the police Wednesday afternoon, it was said, to draw from Hattie Smith every name and every circumstance that she could remember which would incriminate others in her revelations of vice "from the inside" in Atlanta.

When it was read in the senate toward the close of Wednesday's session, Senator G. M. Huie, of the Thirty-fifth, moved that it be passed. It was done so by unanimous consent.

BIRMINGHAM GROCERS FIGHT CONTEMPT CASES

Testimony Taken in Federal Court From Officers and Many Members

(By Associated Press.)

BIRMIGHAM, Ala., July 9.—Taking of testimony is being pushed in the federal court here this afternoon in the hearing of the citation against the Southern Wholesale Grocers' association, its president and officers and its many members to show cause why they should not be held for contempt in not carrying out the defree rendered in 1911. This forbids certain practices.

The government has a wide coterie alleged i continuation of practices intending to show that members of the association whose names were published in what is termed a green book have no trouble in purchasing from manufacturers, while those whose names do not appear in said book could hardly transact business.

L. Lasseter, who was a wholesale grocer at Montgomery, but now in bankruptcy court, gave testimony that his name was not in the "green book" and that he could not buy direct from the manufacturers, and therefore had no chance of thriving. He held the association responsible for his indirect failure.

Nature's Welcome

(John Fox in "The Heart of the Hills.")

The pink-flecked cups of the laurel were dropping to the ground, the woods were starred with great white clusters of rhododendron, wood thrushes, unseen, poured golden rills of music from every cool ravine, air and sunlight were heavy with the richness of June, and every color was a whisper, every sound a voice and every shaking leaf a friendly little beckoning hand—all giving him welcome home

You who know from other years the Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co.'s July Sale of Blankets know also what you may expect of this sale, that now is the time to buy blankets against the days when prices rise to meet demand, but just how fine this 1913 July Sale is you will not know until tomorrow, when you see the blankets that the prices below stand for.

It is to be a better sale than you have known before---a building up from the level of last year. Therein lies its only right to existence, to your interest. The Wool Blankets

We call them wool; they are not all wool, by our own orders to the makers; they have just that amount of cotton in them to secure them from shrinking, and that they shall return light, soft and full-sized from the laundry.

The Cotton Blankets

Campers, patrons of the sleeping porch, have an opportunity in this sale to select those light weight blankets needed right now, at a worth while saving. And they are usually in colors that outdoor living doesn't quickly soil.

1.75	Blankets, 11-4 size, white with blue or pink border, now	1.25

Sizes two to seven years, with just a few in size twelve years.

Navy and red serges and flannels, striped fabrics, mixture weaves, linens and crashes. Smart little box coats and Norfolks—styles we were proud of when their prices were normal, $5.75 to $6.50. Enough of these to allow a fine choice.

$3.75 For $8.50 to $10 Coats

Sizes six to fourteen years.

There are covert cloths, there are attractive shepherd checks, there are navy serges, there are smart striped fabrics, fashioned into Balkan styles, Norfolks and plain box coats. There are but eighteen of these, and they will find ready owners. You should not delay.

$5.00 For $10 White Coats

Sizes two to fourteen years. However, not all sizes in every style.

Choose from white serge, with hand-embroidered collars and cuffs, with collars and cuffs of light blue silk, Norfolk or box style; from white serge with black hair line through it, Balkan style, with black belt; and, in the smaller sizes, from a fine little collection of pongee coats.

You are urged to bring the children with you for fittings, as it will be impossible, during this sale, to send the coats on approval or C. O. D. None will be exchanged.

Justice to Georgia Women.

The House of Representatives is to be congratulated upon its good sense and fair play in granting the use of its hall to the Georgia Woman Suffrage Association for the opening session of the latter's State convention. A refusal of this request would have been ungenerous and unjust. The ladies' petition involved no question of the Legislature's indorsement of the suffrage movement. Whether the members of the General Assembly sanction that cause or oppose it, they could not have barred the State's capitol to so estimable a body of Georgia women without stamping themselves as pettily ungracious, if not positively churlish. The House has done well to retrieve the previous action of the Senate, for little minds and great commonwealths go ill together.

A vine may be all right even if it is a porch climber.

Maybe the tariff on wool discussion brought down the temperature.

Literary Dipsomania.

A critic in the New York Times chortles over the discovery of what he calls "The Dipsomaniac School in Novel Writing" and as evidence thereof adduces the following passages from E. Phillips Oppenheim, "The Avenger":

Page 10—With a little laugh, still not altogether natural, he moved to the spirit decanter and drank off half a wineglassful of neat whisky.

Page 17—"There is one point," he remarked, filling his glass—

Page 21—Wrayson turned to the waiter and ordered a liqueur brandy.

Page 29—A gold-foiled bottle appeared.

Page 47—With a great effort, and an almost reckless resort to his host's champagne • • •

Page 63—"You must come in and have a whisky and soda," she said to Wrayson.

Page 76—The baroness helped herself to whisky and soda.

An interesting collation, but compared with Dickens and many another of the old worthies, this record of bibulousness pales into a Puritanic tea party. It is not to the American "best-seller" but to those now neglected shelves where "Muggleton" and "Dingley Dell" beam ruddily through their dust, that we must turn, if we would find the true "Dipsomaniac School of Novel Writing." The most that "The Avenger" achieves is a dozen drinks and among these there are but six different kinds, including such stock potations as whisky and brandy and champagne. In "Pickwick," drink is mentioned three hundred and forty-nine times. In its fifty-seven chapters, there are only seven from which the cheering cup is absent—an average of seven drinks for each wet chapter.

Nor is the variety less remarkable than the volume of the Pickwickian sideboard, which offers, in addition to cold punch and hot gin, Dantzic spruce and pineapple rum, "warm vanity" and "something short," such curious concoctions as "bishop" and "dog's nose," "drams a la Solomon," negus and "old crusted Port Port." Pickwick presents, all told, sixty-two different kinds of drinks.

Where is the living author who in the most brimming orgies of his imagination could conceive of an Eastcheap tavern where fat Jack shouts to Dame Quickly for sack a d more sack, discoursing the while upon "the fiery, nimble and delectable shapes" with which it throngs his brain? There is no "dipsomaniac school of novel writing" today, nor could there be, for, we abide in age of buttermilk and grape juice. Few are the poets themselves who now go "charioted by Bacchus and his pards." If they drink at all, it is one of those draughts—

"Cooled a long age in the deep-delved earth,
Tasting of Flo a and the country green,
Dance and Provence song and sunburn mirth."

Now watch for some complaint on the cool weather.

War, Indeed.

The stark realism of war was never depicted more grimly than in current dispatches from the Balkans. If the reports be half true, the savagery of Bulgarian atrocities exceeds anything the Turks themselves ever did under color of battle. Indeed, it is difficult for the peoples of enlightened nations to conceive that even the bitterest war could be pressed to such inhuman lengths.

It is a sharp satire upon the governments and the armies that went forth in a so-called crusade against Turkish barbarism that they should themselves turn butchers, one of the other, after the principles for which they fought had been established. It would seem that after all the thirst for blood, when once acquired, is no less savage in one people than in another, and that the habit of throat-cutting, once formed, knows no limit. Despite the veneer of custom and circumstance, war is pretty much the same at all times and in all places.

The victory of the Bulgarians over Turkey was hailed as a triumph of civilization; and so it might have proved, had not the Balkan States, forgetting their common cause, fallen to slashing one another in a quarrel over territorial spoils. Had they remained at peace, the rich lands which came under their dominion would have been developed and the peoples who looked to them for government would have been free to utilize their natural resources. Southeastern Europe would have been re-created and would have become an ornament instead of an eyesore to civilization.

But if the present tactics of the Balkans, and particularly of Bulgaria, continue, the war against the Turk will have been waged in vain and the Balkans themselves will fall victim to the same fatal spirit that brought Turkey to dust.

After all, it is the cheerful idiot who breaks the monotony of the simple life.

An Interesting Suggestion For Extending the W. & A.

The proposal that the State of Georgia purchase the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railroad, which the court has ordered to be sold under foreclosure proceedings, is well worth the Legislature's thorough consideration. There should be little difference of opinion as to the wisdom and importance of extending the State's own road, the Western and Atlantic, to the sea. By acquiring the A. B. & A., which links Atlanta directly to the port of Brunswick, the State could accomplish this highly desirable end without the problems or delays of building a new line and doubtless too, at much less expense. Whether satisfactory terms could be arranged or whether the State should undertake such a deal is, of , a question which only careful inquiry can determine; but it is certainly one that merits prompt and earnest attention.

Mr. W. N. Smith, who offered this suggestion in a communication published in ... Journal, has had abundant practical experience in the transportation affairs of Georgia and he is particularly conversant with the possibilities of the A. B. & A. This road, as he points out, traverses a very prosperous section of the State, "a section whose people are noted for their loyalty to State institutions and who would take pleasure in routing their shipments over their own road at all competitive points." He truly describes the A. B. & A. terminals at Brunswick as "unsurpassed by any on the South Atlantic coast;", and the road's connection with Birmingham is another distinctive advantage to be considered.

If the State were in possession of this valuable property it would have a direct outlet to the coast for the Western and Atlantic, and that would increase the power and usefulness of the latter line beyond all reckoning. As conditions now are, the State owns a merely local road operating between Chattanooga and Atlanta, a circumstance which limits not only the revenue of the W. & A., but also its influence as a determining and protective factor in rate-making. If this line were extended to the coast, as it could be by the addition of the A. B. & A., it would be worth incalculably more both as an investment and as an arbiter of transportation rates.

It is a noteworthy fact in this connection that the act of December 21, 1836, under which the Western and Atlantic was built by the State, contemplated the ultimate extension of the road to the sea. Because of intervening circumstances, that plan was temporarily given up. The State now faces the duty and the opportunity of resuming its original, logical purpose and of carrying it fully into effect.

If the Western and Atlantic is extended to the sea, its value can never be destroyed or impaired by competing systems. Furthermore, it will afford the State's interior towns traffic connections with the advantageous ocean routes to and from the east and will thus become a perpetual guarantee of fair freight rates to the people of Georgia. If, on the contrary, it is not extended to the sea, we have no assurance that in time it will not decline in influence and value.

A bond issue would be necessary for the State's purchase of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic, and that would require a constitutional amendment which could not be voted on until the next general election, a year from next autumn. There is little doubt, however, that arrangements could be made with the purchasers at the sale of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic to transfer the property to the State and accept therefor the State's bonds.

As we said in the outset, this is not a proposition to be accepted or indorsed without due investigation but it is certainly one that deserves the Legislature's earnest inquiry; and to that end a commission should be created without further delay to consider this and all other questions pertaining to the future of the State's road.

Incidentally the president has given warning to people who are disposed to let a vacation interfere with business too greatly.

THE PHILIPPINES

XXVII.—FILIPINO INSURRECTIONS.

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Another cause of the stunted development and low social state of the Filipinos under Spain was the primitive commercial and industrial status of the islands. Machinery of the times was even unknown there. Roads were very few and far between. Even the trade between Spain and the islands was hampered by a lot of senseless rules. No organized effort to protect the commerce of the islands was made until 1782 when Governor-General Basco decreed in certain provinces a monopoly and enforced cultivation of tobacco. About the same time the Royal company of the Philippines was financed on a large scale in Spain, the object being to develop commercial relations between the Philippines, East India, China and the Spanish-American colonies. An effort was made to encourage the cultivation of cotton, pigments, cinnamon, coffee and other tropical products. Indifference, ignorance, isolation and graft restricted all these rosy plans and the company finally expired in 1844.

The dissatisfaction of the Filipinos with Spanish rule grew year after year. This following found expression in revolts and in many acts of violence which hit at the Spaniards indirectly. In 1820 Manilla experienced its first cholera epidemic, the disease being brought from India in a French vessel. Two years earlier foreigners had been given permission to live in Manila and the ignorant people believed that they poisoned the Pasig river. In two days a massacre of all the foreigners, both European and American, took place. The authorities made no effort to stop this carnival of blood until the Filipinos began to kill the Chinamen. It was feared that they might try to wipe out the Spaniards at the same time and the disorder was quelled.

The first serious insurrection broke out in 1822. It was led by Captain Novales, a Filipino who at the head of 100 natives captured the palace of the government buildings. Governor-General Folgueras was assassinated but the rebels were divided and Novales and his lieutenants were executed. The cause of the revolt was the fact that a number of Filipino officers had been discharged or demoted for the sake of a new batch of parasites that had been shipped over from Spain.

In 1835 Spain's constitution was again extended to the islands and in the following year two Filipino delegates sent to the Spanish Cortes decided that the representation from the Philippines should be discontinued and that the colony should thereafter be governed by special laws.

Spain's revolution of 1868 brought about a better condition of affairs which lasted for a short time. The expulsion of Queen Isabelle II. and the liberal government that prevailed under the provisional administration greatly encouraged the people of the islands. The educated Filipinos having great confidence in the new Spanish government believed that an era of true progress had arrived for their own beloved land. The arrival of the new Governor-General La Torre the following year, was the cause of a very cordial demonstration by the Filipinos. For the first time in history the most prominent Filipinos organized and took part in the reception festivities. A great civic procession was held and the leaders went to the new governor-general's palace to assure him of the loyalty of the people and of their high hopes that the reformed government in Spain would give them justice at last.

La Torre was disposed to rule the islands in behalf of the Filipinos and this was his undoing. He was attacked and slandered so severely by the members of his own race who could see no possible good in treating the Filipinos as though they had any rights in their own country, that he was recalled within two years. His successor General Izquierdo believed in the "good old way" and immediately announced that he intended to govern the people "with a crucifix in one hand and a sword in the other." The first thing he did was to prevent the opening of a school of arts and trades. He professed to believe that the educated Filipinos back of the project were animated by base political motives and he publicly branded them as suspects.

An insurrection broke out among the Filipino soldiers of Cavite province on the night of January 20, 1872. The revolt was led by sixty-two native soldiers under a captain and they murdered all of their Spanish officers. The native tribes in other provinces failed to join the revolt and the rebels were easily captured. Unfortunately, Moret, the colonial minister in Madrid, was planning an elaborate system of colonial reform at that time. The mutiny, which was wholly a local affair, gave the tyrannical rulers, both religious and secular, a good excuse to scare the home authority into the belief that a gigantic conspiracy was afoot to overthrow the Spanish sovereignty and the proposed reforms were dropped.

Educated Filipinos in the islands tried to reason with their Spanish friends. They tried to show that the safety of the Spanish regime would ultimately depend upon just treatment of the Filipinos, but their counsel was not heeded. The Spaniards considered this highly insolent and branded such men as rank agitators and traitors. Filipino students in Spain took up the campaign and wrote many articles in the Spanish newspapers and magazines. A large element of the Spanish population in Spain sympathized with the Filipinos and showed a great deal of tolerance toward the young patriots but this did not prevent the government from continuing its high-handed tactics. Marcelo H. del Pilar established in Madrid a Philippine organ called "La Solidaridad" in which patriotic articles appeared from the pen of Pilar himself, Senor Jena Jose Rizal, the great Philippine patriot and martyr, and others. The next step was Rizal's famous book "Noli me tangere" (Do Not Touch Me) which for the first time revealed to the Filipinos the actual conditions under which they lived. This book was a faithful portrayal of every day life in the Philippines, faithful even to the point of dullness.

According to a review of this book in the United States Census Report of the islands, it laid bare all of the defects of the public administration of affairs, the ignorance of the functionaries and their corruption, the vices of many of the friars, the incapacity of the government and the comparatively low order of Spanish system of government and of thought with what was being done and thought in other European countries, especially Germany, and it seemed certain that all who read "Noli me tangere" detested the Spanish system of colonization as it was perpetrated in the Philippines.

At the suggestion of Dr. Rizal the Spanish freemasons endeavored to bridge the deepening chasm between Spaniards and Filipinos. They organized branches in the islands for the purpose of counteracting the despotism of the established order. They failed in this laudable purpose and the open intolerance of the government became greater every day. Rizal's book was translated from the Spanish into his native Tagalog dialect and later into Visayan and other Filipino dialects. Fines, imprisonment and torture were the penalties for those caught selling or reading this book but the demand steadily increased. When the consorship became so strict and the search of the authorities for copies so widespread, the translations were published in tiny pamphlets and even in single sheets so that they could be easily concealed. Rizal's second book "El Filibusterismo" (The Filibuster) still further roused the people. It showed in the form of a novel a race about to rise in holy wrath against its oppressors. This book was intended as a warning to Spain but instead the Spaniards were merely incensed and regarded Rizal as a traitor.

The Conning Tower

BY FRANKLIN P. ADAMS.

THE GOLDEN AGE.

At twenty Jim set out to find
A job, the sort he had in mind;
He was ambitious—boys should be—
And thought, I'll sooner climb a tree
By starting near the top—which truth
Should be impressed upon our youth.
But sad it is to state, the men
Who'd jobs to give said, "Call again
When you are older, and we'll see—
You need experience, dignity."

At thirty Jim was trying still
To find a job which he could fill.
But now no longer time did waste
In seeking one to suit his taste;
He still preferred the top, but said:
"I'll take the foot, if not the head."
"Ahem!" the answer came, "you are Too old to start, too old by far,
And yet too young to boss the show—
Come back within a year or so."

At forty Jim had not yet made
The landing he'd so long essayed,
The years had thinned his raven hair
(To call him bald 'twere scarce fair),
But brought him wisdom, so that he Cried, "I'll take anything you see!"
Again they sharply looked him o'er,
And shook their heads: "Ahem, two score!
You're much too old—don't block the way!—
We want a younger man—good day!"

July 3.—With S. Snowden to the tennis-court and played until dark and to Will Beeme's for dinner and thence to the playhouse and saw Lew Fields the comick actor, and I think nobody droller than he, and a sort of sadness in his manner, too. Also saw Frank Tinney and laughed without moderation at him, too, thought I do hold that James Morton is more comickall than Tinney, and more originall. So home and to-bed.

My Lord Woodrow goes this day to Cornish, whence Louis Shipman and Witter Bynner may keep me informed as to state doings. Very distrait this day with petty worries and a sense of impending disaster, which I pray may be averted.

5.—Up and to the office where all the morning at work reading letters. Thence to J. Wise the cotton merchant's and played at tennis with him, but the heat too great for him to endure many setts, poor wretch. Yet, while he plays his skill is so great that I am hard put to it to trounce him. In the evening the young persons do dance, tangoes and trots and the like, but I did essay none of it. Heard how that there was a cloudburst in the city at 1 o'clock this afternoon, and I could not sleep what with fretting lest I had left open the windows, which I know I had done, and wondering whether Mistress Margery's Jenny had come in to shut them down.

6.—Up and with J. Wise to the court again and we each did lose one sett, which exhausted him utterly. Home in the evening and found Jenny to have shut the windows. Also in the larder I did find a bottle of cream, and one of milk, which I drank and then W. Trumbull and I to a publick for a snack and thence home and read Oliver Onions's "In Accordance with the Evidence," a well-wrote tale, but too diffuse in the telling. But some fine passages in it, none the less.

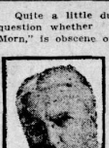
NUDE OR UNDRESSED?

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.

(Copyright, 1913, by Frank Crane.)



Quite a little dust has been kicked up over the question whether Paul Chabas' picture "September Morn," is obscene or not. It presents to us a young girl standing in the water, with no clothing except the morning haze.

A. Comstock et al. have denounced the picture as indecent. In this view the honorable Bath House John of Chicago coincides.

Artists and other emancipated souls are equally emphatic in their declaration that whoever objects to seeing the girl in the altogether is a prude and all sorts of other undesirable things.

It may set both parties right to get the matter clearly in mind. All quarrels arise from a failure to agree first on definitions. It is a case of the two Knights fighting over the color of a shield red on one side and blue on the other.

And in the particular subject at issue it all depends upon whether the young female is Nude or Undressed.

A Nude person is one who goes unclothed from preference and only wears garments for warmth's sake. An Undressed person is one who always wears clothes, loves them and expresses herself or himself by them, and who is surprised garmentless.

The Venus de Milo in the Louvre is nude. Lady Godiva as she rode the streets of Coventry was all undressed. The Greeks were nude; Americans in a Turkish bath are naked.

Modern civilized conventional human beings can never be nude, because clothes are a part of their religion. What they call morality has nothing unusually to do with any ethical force or virtue of self-expression, but is merely conformity to custom. Such people can never be nude; when they take off their clothes they are naked—and naughty.

It is not so bad as it used to be. In a preceding generation nothing had legs but pianos and tables; ladies had limbs; and the whole region from the collar to the waistlines was known as the stomach, for the simple old English term belly was for some inscrutable reason believed to be indelicate.

There is even a legend of a young preacher who announced to his flock that he was about to discourse upon "Jonah, who, as you all know, spent three days in the whale's—um—hm—that is to say, three days in the whale's—hm—society."

The painting by Chabas is not of something naked, the girl is not undressed. She never had any clothes on in her life. She is not thinking clothes. She has stepped dryad-like out of the woods and she lives with other bodied-fancies, with thought-beings that never wore anything but beauty.

She is nude. And she is as pure as the deity-fingers that made bodies, and purer than the human fingers that fix and button up clothes.

She never wore anything, never will wear anything. If she put anything on she would be indecent.

So it's all as you take it. Most of us never "come to ourselves" except by undressing. As soon as we are born the layette is ready, all our lives we wear uniforms, when we lie in our coffins we are still dressed up, and when we get to heaven and fly around with the angels we shall all have on beautiful white nightgowns.

So let us be thankful that there remains one realm where the nude human form, the most beautiful thing God ever made, can still walk in innocence and free from all the stifling psuedo-moralities clothes imply—the realm of art.

When Mlle. Ada Villany was fined two hundred francs for dancing nude upon the stage at Paris, her defense was that when she removed her clothing it was to express her soul. She was mistaken. The body does not express the soul unless it has always been unclothed. It is not the absence of clothing that is indecent; it is the removal of clothing.

COURTESY

(Chicago Tribune.)

"Courtesy," as issued by the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic Railroad company, in a pamphlet for its employes, contains the practical philosophy of that virtue.

It would bring to the comprehension of every employe of a public service corporation that in entering service he exchanged one of the rights of mankind for the rights of authority. He surrendered the right to meet impatience with patience. He gave up the privilege of answering irritability with irritability.

He substituted a disciplined calmness for the natural instinct of man to talk back or hit back. He many, in the ordinary moments of his work, be dealing with people who are in the extraordinary moments of their life. His nerves ought to be steadied by routine; theirs may be upset by accident.

His attitude towards the public ought to be and must be one of superiority in its real sense.

Says "Courtesy":

The man whose business it is to meet the public, who resists impatience with patience and temper with calmness, is gaining the respect and sympathy of every witness to the situation, and the offender will regret his act in his first reasoning moment.

In this country, where all are created free and equal, it is the first instinct to harshly resent any word of temper or impatience. It is considered a denial of one man's equality with another.

All men are equal as they meet as the patrons of the railroads, the theater, the hotel, or any public or semi-public institution.

But—

When it becomes the business of one man to meet these same men in an official capacity, then that man becomes superior over the many by reason of his authority—it becomes his business, his trade, to meet the public, individually and collectively, and handle them efficiently with the least possible friction and the most dispatch—with the least resistance to his authority.

This requires that he look above the weaknesses of individuals in the crowd and meet discourtesy with courtesy, unreasonableness with reason, impatience with patience.

The philosophy of this "courtesy" is within the comprehension of every public service employe, and its good-natured acceptance, as an evidence of superiority, would improve every such service.

GENIUS

(Louisville Courier-Journal.)

The hot wave which has caused widespread suffering gave a New York beggar his golden opportunity, but it was genius that made it possible for him to see the opportunity when it arrived.

An exceptionally moist individual in a heavy ulster appeared in a subway car. Inquiry evoked the statement that he was wearing the ulster, tightly buttoned up to the throat, because he had no other clothes. Suffering men in linen and flannel, coatless and perspiring, responded promptly. A collection for the benefit of the poor man in the overcoat was quickly taken up. The sufferer took the money thankfully, left the car, entered the next one and repeated his role of the silent uncomplaining victim of poverty plus heat. A second collection shifted him to a third car, and his uncomfortable day netted him a handsome profit.

Genius nearly always requires something in the way of self-sacrifice. The genius who writes an immortal poem, paints a great picture or chisels marble into the perfection of proportion, gives himself unsparingly to his art. The capacity of the beggar for suffering uncomplainingly in the interest of his art brands him akin to the toilers in other fields of endeavor who achieve great things by rare self-sacrifice.

$100,000 APPROPRIATION FOR GA. DISPLAY ASKED

Exhibit at Panama Exposition Will Be Worth Millions, Says Commission

An appropriation of $100,000, available in 1915, will be asked by the Georgia commission for a display by the state at the Panama exposition in that year.

"It will be worth millions of dollars to Georgia," is the commission's conclusion.

The commission met Tuesday in the office of the state geologist in the capitol. Prof. S. W. McCallie, the geologist, is a member of it. Another ex-officio member is J. D. Price, commissioner of agriculture. Frank Weldon, named by Governor Brown from the state at large, was elected chairman of the commission. The whole big project was discussed from every angle and was favored enthusiastically.

"The treasury may seem to be depleted now," the commission believed, "but that condition may pass; and, moreover, the state or the individual that cannot find money to put into an investment such as this one is certain to be in a poor way indeed."

Judge Sambola Jones, of Louisiana, one of the exposition commissioners, addressed the Georgia board. Practically every state of the Union, he said, will have a display in the San Francisco exposition. Twenty-six foreign nations already have accepted invitations to take part in it. The exposition will be the greatest the world ever has seen, said he. Its total cost will approximate more than $100,000,000. Millions of dollars are being spent on grading and beautifying the immense tract within the Golden Gate on San Francisco bay where the exposition will stand. The whole civilized world will meet on the Pacific coast during the ten months of the exposition, said he.

Judge Jones later explained the purpose of the exposition to Governor John M. Slaton, when the commission visited the governor. Robert F. Maddox, former mayor of Atlanta, member of the commission, addressed the governor, declaring that the San Francisco exposition will offer to the state an opportunity which she cannot afford to miss for advertising her tremendous resources. Mr. Maddox urged that the necessary appropriation be made.

No promise was asked of the governor, but he offered some suggestions and said that he was impressed by the importance of the project.

Following its conference with the governor, the commission will meet again and outline its plan of procedure. It expects to foster the introduction of a special act in the legislature at an early date. Arrangements will be made for an address by Judge Jones before a joint session of the house and senate immediately after adjournment for the day, probably next Monday. And the appropriations committee of the house will be asked to give the commission a hearing next Tuesday afternoon.

Members of the general assembly are said to promise their strong support for a display by Georgia at San Francisco. The south Georgians want to display their section's fruit, grain, vegetables, tobacco, pecans and long staple cotton. Middle Georgia wants to show to the world its wide range of agricultural products and manufactures. North Georgia wants to display grains and minerals.

"Several states have made appropriations of from $200,000 to $700,000," said Chairman Weldon Wednesday morning. "But Georgia, with far less money, can make a display that will equal any other in San Francisco—a display that will be worth millions of dollars to Georgia."

C. W. Hatcher Rescues Woman From Drowning

Another rescue from drowning has been added to the laurels of Atlantians at the coast, by the brave act of C. W. Hatcher, now at St. Simons, in saving a Brunswick matron from death in the waters there last Monday afternoon.

Report from St. Simons is that Mr. Hatcher was fishing on the pier when he heard a woman scream and turned to see her struggling in the water. Without hesitating to discard any of his clothing he plunged in and swam to her, holding her with one hand and swimming hard across the current. He was almost exhausted when he reached shoal water and found that he could stand. Then a Mr. Pitts, of Montgomery, stretched out a hand and assisted him and the woman to safety.

She gave her name as Mrs. Smith, of Brunswick. With other ladies of that city she had come out for an afternoon at the beach. Not being a swimmer, she was wading about in the shallows when she stepped off into the deep channel. There she managed to keep afloat until help arrived.

Mr. Hatcher is the head of a department store firm whose place of business is at 246 Marietta street.

Actor's Mother Knows Of Death of Her Son

Mrs. V. D. Bailey, mother of Frank Bailey, the actor who killed his wife and himself in Kansas City Sunday, has been found, and does know of her son's death, according to a friend of the family.

"Mrs. Bailey asked me this morning to correct the impression that she is not to be found," said the friend, Tuesday. "She cannot account for it. She not only knows all the details of the matter, but had ordered that her son's body be sent home for burial, and it should be here by Wednesday, she believes."

Until about two weeks ago Mrs. Bailey lived in Decatur, said the friend. She moved from there to Lindsay street, in Western Heights, on the River car line. And there she lives now.

CREMATORY CONTRACT SIGNED BY THE MAYOR

Plant Will Be Ready to Commence Full Operation in About Two Weeks

Mayor Woodward at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon signed the contract for the crematory. The crematory will begin operation in two weeks.

Under the terms of the contract the city is to pay the Destructor company $125,000 at once. The voucher for this amount will be drawn Wednesday afternoon, and the check will probably reach the mayor Thursday.

W. E. Dowd, Jr., sales engineer of the Destructor company, arrived in the city Wednesday morning, having come from Savannah, where the company is preparing to install a crematory.

The contract provides that the balance of the price of the plant, which balance is $125,000, shall be paid when the plant shall have demonstrated in actual operation that it will perform its various guarantees. It may be a month after the plant begins operating, or it may be six months, before the members of council, the mayor and the city engineer are satisfied as to the guarantees. In addition to this protection to the city, the contract is backed by a bond for the full amount of the purchase price, $260,000.

The signing of the contract by the mayor puts an end to his opposition to the plant. The original contract provided that the city should pay $278,600, with several thousand dollars interest added. The mayor succeeded in getting the price down to $260,000, saving all the interest, and by his opposition was instrumental in forcing the completion of the plant within the time limit.

MRS. LEE FINED FOR HORSE-WHIPPING MAN

"Unwritten Law Too Popular and Should Be Done Away With," Says Recorder

"The unwritten law is entirely too popular, and should be done away with," remarked Recorder Nash R. Broyles Tuesday afternoon when he fined Mrs. Cora Lanier Lee $10.75 for horsewhipping T. D. Thompson Monday afternoon at Forsyth and Nelson streets.

Mrs. Lee in court frankly admitted using a whip on Thompson, and claimed that she was justified in her action because Thompson had slandered her.

"The unwritten law," however, did not appeal to the recorder, and he fined the woman and dismissed the case against the man.

"We have courts to uphold the law and defend justice," the recorder told Mrs. Lee, "and persons should not take the law in their own hands, but should go to the courts for justice.

"Whether or not the defendant is able to pay the amount of the verdict in a slander suit, the verdict proves the slanderous lie and upholds character."

Mrs. Lee, who the day before had used a horsewhip on Thompson until she broke it, was nervous and excited while in the court.

Under cross-examination of Chief Beavers, Mrs. Lee, who visited that official the morning before she attacked Thompson, denied the report that the chief had advised her to whip Thompson.

Boys' Shoe Economy

Not In The Price

The Shoe Economy question is not a matter of high price or a low price; it is a question of what constitutes the best types of that always necessary, much abused article of the boy's attire.

There are two things to be considered when a pair of Shoes is to be bought: What the shoe is to be used for, and—What is best for the foot that is to be put in the shoe.

What does a boy use shoes for? Ah! such use soon tells the type of shoe you buy for him. If it's a Muse shoe, the use is exceedingly good, and the Muse standard establishes the type of shoe he shall wear.

It is also the shoe that is good for the foot. It fits the foot, because it is built on a natural last, and the inside tells of good work. Look at the solid sole leather of which your Muse shoes are built; look at the good looks of them; look at the immense stock of sizes and widths—enough for all. This is a store with every size in stock.

These are the Muse standards for Shoe Economy.

COVERING AND CONTINUED SUPPORT CAUSED ADVANCE

Market in New York Closed 11 to 15 Points Higher Than the Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 9.—Steady cables, continued dry weather in the belt and reports that bull interests are seriously menacing the crop in many sections of the south, encouraged a renewal of yesterday's cotton buying movement at the opening today. The market sold 6 to 10 points net higher during the early trading on covering, a moderate foreign demand for early new crop positions and scattered buying apparently from both local and southern sources. Business was not active, however, and there was enough realizing to cause slight reactions before the end of the first hour.

The market was quiet later in the morning with prices showing a net advance of about 3 to 5 points.

Continued hot weather in the south and increasing apprehension of insect damage caused rather a more active demand during the early afternoon, which prices sold about 8 to 13 points net higher.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, July 9.—Cotton futures opened steady at an advance of 1 to 2 points on good cover. The weather map showed cloudy but fairly dry weather over the cotton region and the forecast did not indicate much change in weather conditions. This was called unfavorable by those who were bullishly inclined as the belt is beginning to need rain again and further rain is being argued that a large yield was never raised with dry weather during July and August. At the end of the first half hour of business prices were 3 to 8 points over yesterday's close, July about the best for the day on account of a few notices that were circulated.

Toward the middle of the morning the market fell off to the level of yesterday's close as moderate selling for short account which appeared to be based on the favorable political situation. Selling was not determined enough to cause a set decline and late in the morning buying absorbed offerings, long interests being buyers on the belief temperatures in Texas and Oklahoma. At noon the trading months were 3 to 5 points over the final figures of yesterday.

NEW YORK COTTON LETTER.

NEW YORK, July 9.—The market has ruled very quiet today but steady. There has been some buying on the report of boll weevil in Texas and a fear on the part of the part bear elemtn to sell the market short in the face of the uncertainty just now as to what development from climatic conditions. The high temperatures prevailing in some sections are causing concern and altogether the feeling is a little more bullish than has been for some time regardless of the favorable reports from the eastern belt. The feeling locally is, however, restricting business to such an extent that we may expect a very narrow market until this is over.—Potter.

INTERESTING NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE MARKETS

Weather Reports, Crop Advices, Expert Opinions and Newspaper Comment

COTTON GOSSIP

Times-Democrat says: While hot weather is normal in July, talk of heat spells yesterday was reflected in a steady spot crop market. Bulls said high temperatures are feared when rainfall is below, maybe more, was needed another year, and any development that suggested the presence of yield reducing factor would be worse for new crop shorts. On the other hand, bears said the old crop market is practically in a technically cornered position, and may be advanced at will by the men who own nearly the entire crop this season, even a suggestion of excessive heat will answer the purpose of the bull faction.

Tuesday the entire belt was practically free of rain. The weather was hot everywhere, and particularly so in the west, but the temperature records of other years, as a rule, were not more than normal for the current month. The crop this year is, in the main, getting plenty of moisture. Delay in the arrival of the first new bale is worrying the old crowd short no little, but sookesmen for the bear party say that there is likely to be less delay in the development of a movement of important proportions this year than the first after the rains. The bull party say the world really needs good crop cotton, therefore, will absorb the new receipts with avidity.

Meanwhile cotton is being delivered on July contracts in very small volume and those remaining shorts who do not desire to make delivery do not yet see the road that will lead them out of their troubles.

May very favorable, cooler in Oklahoma and Texas, partly cloudy in the east, dry in west. Scattered showers, no excessive temperatures. Favorable weather for crops. Forecast: Local scattered showers in belt, cooler northern half of Texas and Oklahoma, Arkansas and Tennessee and making warmer more rain in central states by Saturday.—Keller.

Forecast:

Louisiana: Tonight and Thursday generally fair; cooler tonight in extreme northwest and east portion tonight or Thursday; light variable winds on the coast.

Mississippi: Unsettled, showers tonight or Thursday.

Alabama: Tonight and Thursday unsettled.

East Texas: Tonight and Thursday; generally fair; not much change in temperature.

West Texas: Tonight and Thursday generally fair.

Georgia and Alabama: Fair tonight; local showers Thursday.

Tennessee: Local showers tonight and slightly cooler; fair tomorrow.

Mississippi: Generally fair tonight and Thursday.

North Carolina: Fair in east, showers in west.

South Carolina: Fair.

Florida: Local showers, except fair in northwest.

At 8 m., bids in New York were as follows: January 11.52; July 12.42; August 12.04; October 11.52.

Quotations were as follows at noon: New contract steady on light offerings and fair demand on talk of boll weevil in Texas being more numerous than since July 1.—Price Current.

Some buying on rumor that Price is out with bullish circular, received very light.

Dick Brothers selling.

Washington dispatch says: "In an amendment which he will introduce shortly to the income tax section of the tariff bill, Senator Simmons proposes that a part of the tax paid shall be made on all sales of securities, products of the soil and meats made under the regulations of any exchange or board of trade where the seller is not the owner of the property sold at the time the sale is made."

A prominent Texas spot man in New York learned for the first time yesterday that the Clarke amendment taxes contracts made on Liverpool $50 the same is in New York or New Orleans, and immediately got busy with Washington. I think much of the apparent apathy on the part of Southern spot merchants in regard to the bill is due to their belief that they can beget around it. I believe you don't worry about the fate of American exchanges.

Spot merchants should be acquainted with the fact that the amendment taxes them as much as domestic and foreign exchanges. When they realize that in order to hedge under the law the producer must pay 50 cents a bale, they will probably wake up and begin working to have the bill defeated.

STOCK GOSSIP

Dow, Jones summary:

Government crop report at 2:15 today. Copper producers figures to be announced about 12:30. Clarke bill passed by house by members of Boston and Maine; Morris McDonald, of Portland, will succeed Burleigh, Bulls precedents in west and northwest optimistic over crop and business outlook. Twelve industrials declined 1.15. Twenty active rails declined .10. American stocks in London quiet and irregular. London settlement began today.

Look for a quiet market. At 2:15 p. m. the government crop report will be published. Believe the threatened railroad strike will be settled. Believe the labor troubles in the country will soon end. Believe the unsettled conditions in Chicago late yesterday created bear talk among corn traders. Bulls said that without good general rains they expect to see an advance before the end of the week. The point was made that with such low values decline it would take a big increase in the buying power to advance corn to any extent. Local crowd are short of cotton and disposed to wait for a further decline before there is any permanent good on the long side.

Bartlett, Frazier & Co. say: Wheat—Weather map and crop reports generally clear the country of appreciable rains. Sales of wheat to arrive from the country are on a very large scale, and selling against same, coupled with local short selling, continues to prove a weight on the market. Prices have declined from about the high point of Thursday, and a reaction would not least seem in order.

Corn—The weather map shows rains at North Platte, Dubuque and light showers at several points in Illinois and the Ohio valley. The heavy rain in Chicago reached a moderate area in the surrounding country but did not extend into the central part of the state. Local sentiment is bearish and there was a good deal of short selling yesterday. We are inclined to look for a steady to a firm market.

Oats—The speculative buying is limited and at the moment there does not seem to be much selling power.

Provisions—Receipts of hogs slightly under estimates. General undertone remains firm.

Price Current estimates carry-over of wheat 83,000,000, against 59,000,000 last year, and indicated winter wheat crop 400,000,000 bushels, estimated the 1912 crop by 30,000,000 bushels.

Mid-continent grain amendment proposes a tax of 10 per cent on grain, all products and securities.

Department of Agriculture stations in the corn and wheat region, only three report light showers, Mitchell, S. D., Huron, S. D., Pollock, S. D. It is clear in north and south Dakota and Minnesota.

NEW YORK STOCK LETTER

NEW YORK, July 9.—The declining tendency of the market is due to the unsatisfactory statistics that appear in the financial situation. Capital is shrinking until there is some prospect of clearskies before increasing commitments. Low money level should be attractive to the investor on account of the dividend returns, but investor should have some favorable news, prices might work little higher.—Hopkins & Porter.

HAYWARD & CLARK'S COTTON LETTER

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 9.—Weather developments overnight are generally favorable. There was some danger of temporary short spells in the northwest, but these prospects have changed over night in favor of showers and cooler weather, except in the southern half of Texas, where temperatures will remain of a persistency. Partly cloudy weather prevails and indications are for showers towards the end of the week, extending into the central and eastern belt.

Political news is unfavorable. Liverpool is steady on futures and quotes spots 6 points up 10,000. New York opened strong on July and August, which caused an advance of about 7 points around the opening. Selling is generally restricted, owing to the belief that those who control the old crop positions will assert themselves at some time or other.

We have a bullish circular by Mr. Price, calling attention to the prospects for the usual crop scares during the critical crop period. Memphis reports good and beneficial showers in Arkansas, north Mississippi and Tennessee, where needed. The market eased toward noon on more favorable weather news, but there is no selling pressure and the tendency is to buy on easy periods.

CLARKE AMENDMENT WILL HURT SPOT COTTON TRADE

If Cotton Merchant Could Not Protect Himself by Hedges, He Would Offer Lower Prices

The senators and representatives in Washington should realise that the cotton markets and cotton exchanges are not used as a rule by the actual producers of the crop, the farmer, but by the speculative element, and what the bears are selling for, but the exchanges of America are a necessity and very important to them as a basis of protection and insurance to those who are buying the few number of bales from each farmer that the aggregate for the day's purchases in a busy season will reach 100, 500 or possibly 1,000 bales. The small farmer sells the cotton buyer or the exporter who even imitates his return in this way is able to sell contracts on the New York or New Orleans exchange and offer a sale either to the American spinner or to the foreign spinner, who use as an average about one-third of this crop or to the foreign spinners who use about two-thirds of the American crop. If spinners will not buy the spot cotton they should not protect himself by hedges against spot cotton which he is buying, when he did not have an option that brought him the right to offer lower prices to the farmer than he could afford to pay if he knows he is to get effective insurance.

The same thing applies to the mill man who makes contracts ahead for the output of his mill. He sells a small bill of goods here and another small bill there, and when he has got the cotton to fill these contracts, he insures himself by buying cotton on the New York or New Orleans exchanges until he can secure the prices of cotton against him in full these contracts, thus the exchanges are used largely for legitimate protection and insurance.

While,of course, there is some speculation, it is this speculation which makes the real market at all times, and which gives a ready sale line of battle which rather feels than fixes the prices. That will take chances that are handling his actual commodity won't hesitate to take them,therefore, during the time there is helped by the speculator so that large spinners can buy cotton and hedge and can be effected without wide fluctuations, but if this speculation is eliminated the fluctuations must necessarily be much greater. It is for this reason the American cotton industry and the world in general is opposed to the Clarke amendment.

The adoption of this amendment would eliminate the functions of the American cotton exchanges and turn the bulk of the spot market for the world in the hands of foreigners, because though with the possibility two-thirds of the American crop is used.

Generally speaking, future trading some years ago but feeling that her people were at a disadvantage by having no market, has recently re-established a market in Bremen.

The elimination of cotton exchanges in America would in fact mean the ruin of these institutions generally distributed throughout the cotton belt in every large city and cotton centers and railroads. The markets would come from Liverpool and Bremen. The only exporter would have his market by cable while the small farmer would sell his cotton without knowing the facts and would be at the mercy of which he now gets by active competition, be it through speculation or through hedging or the American exchanges are the basis for his information. Destroy them and he is in the dark.

Prof. Emory, of Washington, in his report dealt at length on this subject.

While this is a horribly selfish article, I may give you some ideas or points to enlarge on in the future, if necessary, when I have to bear against adoption of the Clarke amendment.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET WAS DULL BUT LOWER

Canadian Pacific, Southern Pacific, Petroleum Stocks, Reading and Copper Led

NEW YORK, July 9.—Canadian Pacific, which declined 2%, was the only stock to change more than a fraction in first dealings today. Reading, Lehigh and Amalgamated began the day unchanged. Other leading issues ranged slightly under yesterday's close. There was active selling of Union Pacific and Can. which feature large fractions.

Rumors of an impending $60,000,000 stock issue caused liberal selling of Canadian Pacific, under which it dropped sold 203½, the year's lowest. Weakness became widespread. Lehigh Pacific, Reading, Southern Pacific and Smelting yielding a point.

Accumulating bearish influences which made little impression upon the market earlier in the week, were more effective today in forcing a definite downward movement. Although pressure diminished during the latter half of the forenoon session the market remained at a lower level.

Much of the selling of Canadian Pacific, which increased its cos to 3½ points, came from London, which disposed of 10,000 shares here. Liberal liquidation of extensive lignite line of long stock here for Pittsburg account.

Greater prominence to the deadlocked controversy between the railroads given by the renewed weakness of railroad and other bonds. The small break in railroad and industrial bonds, the 2's being offered at 98¾ without bids, compared with recent sales at 99.

After the momentous consequence on the bank in Canadian Pacific had ended wim went out of trading. Later speculation was uninteresting. Attempts to buy stock found the customary obstacles in the way, and prices were generally worked up while the demand for Reading and Amalgamated made a complete recovery but other leaders did not. Bonds were dull.

Prices of railroad stocks advanced after the government crop report came out, notwithstanding the early falling off in condition and shrinkage in indicated yield, but the movement was short but the general list ended with a sprinkling of small gains.

Closed: Firm.

LONDON STOCKS

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, July 9.—Stock exchange traders were principally occupied with the general carry-over during the forenoon but the market suffered from liquidation in the afternoon. Lower cables and American offerings made the closing flat and considerably lower. The only apparent reason for the selling seemed to be fears of Balkan complications.

American securities after a quiet opening, moved irregularly until the afternoon, when Canadian Pacific fell 4 points and Union Pacific 1½ under New York and continental selling. The rest of the list eased off in sympathy and the market closed weak.

PRICES RISE IN LONDON STOCKS

What Anne Ritten house Says

The Turkish sash has undergone several transformations since its first appearance. It was begun in a normal way, and instantly taken as a means of accentuating the figure in sometimes an unpleasant manner, and it has been draped around the body by unskilful hands in a most lamentable manner.

Like all the other fashions of the past two years, it had its possibilities of artistic evil and these were made the most of by those who do not know how to stop short of an extreme.

There was a time in the spring when women were thoroughly wearied of the sash because they had seen it dragged through the mire, as it were, and it represented to them the last word in cheap dressing. But this did not influence the high-priced dressmakers who kept at the sash as a means of drapery, using it in various graceful ways that would give youthfulness to the figure instead of a suggestion of full maturity.

At the present moment, it looks as though the loose sash which is tied at the back will be commended by critics and conts, and Cheruit will have the pleasure of seeing another one of her styles perpetuated. The panniers has the same kind of success as the sash and both were brought into fashion by her.

The original idea which she worked out with the sash was to suspend it from a loop in the front and drop it across the side and knot the two short ends below the corset in the back. This was not considered a bold enough treatment by many women who better liked the wide soft sash of silk or satin wrapped around the hips and tied at the side.

This was the gypsy form of wearing a girdle that is far more effective behind the footlights than under the noon-day sun. As soon as women began parading the streets with skirts tied about their hips in this fashion, the women who were fastidious about dress quickly dropped the sash and discarded the whole idea. It has now come back again in its original guise, is made in all the soft fabrics, and is placed on coats as well as on gowns.

Sashes Lined With Color.

Women who like to be distinct from their neighbors are using the sash in black and white as an admirable combination for street as well as house wear, and one of the bits of color that they allow themselves is to line the sash. This lining shows in the loose ends more than anywhere else but as the sash is not drawn closely around the body, it shows up attractively in fleeting glimpses at the side and in front.

One of the exclusive methods of making a one piece frock that is to have a sash is to drop a broad panel of the material, finished with a heavier fabric at the edges, from shoulders to knees. Across this goes the sash, not at the waistline, but below the hips, and the whole effect is quite slim and girlish.

The black satin model that is made in this manner has its sash lined with white satin and run through a three inch loop of the material in front, just above the waistline. The sash drops down from that to ten inches below the waistline in the back and is not spread out across the hips, but allowed to hang in careless folds.

When a black sash is lined with king's blue or Vatican purple, the effect is good, although it does not have the distinction of the white lining, but after all that may be merely a matter of personal opinion and many women may prefer the touch of brilliancy.

In Paris they are lining these sashes with striped Roman silk and Scotch plaid, and this idea promises to be brought out in thin cloth suits for Autumn, such as, for instance, a raven blue gabardine one piece frock with a sash of self-colored satin lined with dull red, blue and black plaid.

When the gown with the panel and the sash appeared last year the Americans did not take it up with much enthusiasm, but they did like the straight coat that was made in imitation of the gown. This continues in fashion and may go into the winter. The coat is longer in back than in front and is arranged to look like a loose panel from shoulders half way to knees. The sash starts on the sides and hangs loosely across the back where it is knotted with open ends that fall to the hem of the coat.

Surprising as it may seem this style of coat and gown can be worn by a woman with rather large hips and a stout waist. It is not really surprising after all, because the absence of any accentuated waistline is often more becoming and gives a better impression of slenderness than a well defined measurement which is neither graceful or sinuous.

Invitations Recalled

On Monday and Tuesday evenings Miss Green was complimented with automobile parties.

Parents Didn't Call for Baby

(Boston Globe.)

MANCHESTER, N. H.—The Rev. George R. Hasard, rector of Grace Episcopal parish, says the opening of the nursery at his church was accompanied with unexpected developments. He believes the idea is a good one, but he would prefer to have the parents who leave their babies there return to get them after church is over.

As it is, the parish has a healthy little youngster on its hands. Some four or five other babies, deposited at the nursery, were reclaimed, so that on the whole the outgo of infants nearly equaled the income.

The nursery idea is a new one in Manchester and is based on the theory that the reason why parents do not go to church oftener is that they have to stay at home and take care of the babies. Rector Hasard invited the plan where by parents could come to church and leave their children with a nurse during service.

The first couple to come along had a baby about six weeks old and arrived at the church with it about 10:30 o'clock, or just in time for the service. The rector invited them to leave the infant in the nursery and remarked on the fact that they had no baby carriage but conveyed the little tot in their arms.

The nurse in charge of the nursery was Miss Emma R. Johnson. She provided a cushion for the baby to lie on while the parents were supposed to be giving attention to the sermon and prayers. By and by other babies were left there and when the sermon was over the nurse returned the youngsters to their parents, in each case giving back the same baby that was deposited.

But in the case of this particular child referred to by the rector, the parents did not return and one of the parishioners is now caring for the baby at his house.

To Destroy Flies

Flies can most readily be destroyed in the house, where other liquids are made inaccessible, by the use of a 2 per cent solution of formaldehyde placed in a shallow vessel in which is also placed a small piece of bread soaked in milk. The flies drink the formaldehyde and are quickly poisoned. The poisoned flies are not dangerous if by chance they are eaten by chickens or fall into food.

The Evening Story — A Home

(Copyright, 1913, by W. Werner.)

Milly was scalding the ice box on the back porch. It was the one task in housework that she disliked the most, although there were many others that she repelled against. As she slushed the hot water and soda through the drains her pretty, soft, red lips pouted. A year before she had been a stenographer down town, making $25 a week, wearing white tailored waists, trim skirts and nobby hats. She had flung it over gladly to share Fred's $27.50. Couldn't two live as cheaply as one? Anyway she was willing to try it. She was ready to give up that street car crush as part of the day's routine and wash dishes instead. She knew, of course, that $27.50 couldn't include a maid. Besides, she liked housework.

He listened frowning.

But her experience of housework during the years that she lived with an aunt had been fixing the silverware and centerpiece on the table. Occasionally she had dusted the piano and china closet. Afterward the aunt had gone to another city and Milly had boarded. She was glad to get into her own home and while she was learning to boil other vegetables than potatoes and broil a steak without burning it they ate often at restaurants. It was fun to try different ones, but it proved expensive also. The supply of clothes with which each had begun married life dwindled and got shabby. Finally, Fred, frowning thoughtfully, declared that he had to have a new suit—that one was too shiny to wear down at the office; they'd have to cut out restaurants and theaters for a month.

Milly agreed instantly that he needed the suit. She wouldn't have him shabby around well groomed men. And it would only be for a few weeks. Then they would have a gay fling. But at the end of the few weeks other things were needed. Somehow they got into a compelling rut of economy. Shoes and gloves and a hat for Milly, and then a hat for Fred, and dozens of other things, it seemed, were needed.

Milly learned what it was to have to do without something that cost only a few cents. And somehow the learning was harder than she had imagined. Her hands were getting red and rough. The pretty, polished nails that used to skim over the keys were unsightly. Milly always had been particular with her hands, but paring potatoes, washing dishes, scouring silverware, and scalding an ice box are not in harmony with polished nails and soft, white skin.

"Unpleasant work, isn't it?" said young Mrs. Andrews, who lived in the flat above, as she came downstairs on her way to the basement laundry. "I declare if it wasn't for the baby Will and I would board. Then life would be worth living. But a baby in a boarding house is impossible."

Mrs. Andrews went on. Mill's eyes, grave and intent, followed her absently. She did not care greatly for Mrs. Andrews, a frivolous little thing who took life and work very languidly and gave her baby cookies whenever it cried. But the careless speech had started something in Milly's discontented mind. Why hadn't she thought of it before? Why need she bother with this horrid work? What was there to prevent herself and Fred boarding? Then she could get another position, and all this scraping for clothes and outings would be a thing of the past.

She hurriedly rinsed the ice box and pulled it back into its place. Her plans had taken definite shape. They could store the furniture—much of it had been wedding presents, so they hardly cared to sell it—and go straight to the comfortable boarding house where she had spent three happy years, and then life would be worth while. Her fingers tingled to be back at the keys.

At the dinner table that night—and dinner was not appetizing, owing to her excitement over the plans that she had formed—she broached the subject to Fred. He listened frowning, and stirred his coffee vigorously, but he made no objection. "If you really think that you'll be happier," he acquiesced. "That is what I want most."

Milly felt vaguely guilty, but she brushed the feeling away. If Fred didn't care to board he ought to say so. Perhaps, she argued, he also relished the idea of more money.

The furniture was stored at once. Luckily they were able to re-lease the flat which was a desirable one. They got a double room at the boarding house, and Milly got a position fully as good as the one that she had given up. The first week passed quickly in adjusting themselves. Milly arranged the pictures and photographs that she had kept out for their room, unpacked their trunks, and laid in a supply of tailored shirt waists for work.

Fred was rather quiet. But work was pressing at the office and she fancied that he was preoccupied over that. She was jubilant. It was nice not to have to wash the dishes after dinner, but walk straight upstairs to a magazine or go out to a theater.

The next week Milly was absorbed by the novelty of getting back into harness. She found that her fingers had lost some of their skill—not much. A week brought it back. But she added another black mark to the house work. It was pleasant rushing out at noon for a bite of lunch and then hunting bargains in the stores, just as she used to. She got some lovely jabots—real Irish lace—and a handsome embroidered blouse, soiled but ridiculously cheap. Milly was happy.

It was the beginning of the second week that she remarked petulantly to Fred, "I am tired of pie for dessert—apple, lemon, peach, then apple again and lemon and peach. That was good pudding I used to make, wasn't it?"

"Yes" said Fred indifferently.

Saturday Milly only worked the half day. So did Fred. They met at noon and took lunch together. "Matinee?" Fred asked.

"Oh, I don't know," said Milly, "I'm tired."

"Then we might as well go home," said Fred. "I have some extra work in my pocket anyway."

"You can't figure there," said Milly. "That Miss Agnew who has the next room practices scales. And what do you think?" indignantly. "Just because I sewed on the machine last night till after 11 she complained of the whirring to the landlady! Said that she couldn't sleep."

"But it was a quarter to 12 that you sewed, Milly," Fred told her.

"What if it was?" crossly. "I have to sew at night when I want to wear the waist the next night! She shouldn't live in a boarding house if she is so finicky."

"Guess if you don't want to take in a show I'll go over to the reference room of the public library," said Fred. "It's quiet there, and I couldn't get the stuff correct with a wailing songstress separated from me by a thin pine door." He laughed as he spoke.

"All right," said Milly slowly. "Only—" She broke off, hurried to a car across the street.

Four hours later when Fred came into their room he found her sitting in a rocker, her face in her palms, her eyes red and her attitude an eloquent expression of melancholy. "What's the matter?" he demanded.

"There's roast pork for dinner," sighed Milly. "I smell it."

"Is that anything to cry about?" Fred demanded in amusement.

"I hate roast pork," said Milly. "And I hate working. I want to go home and cook what I want and not have to get up early in the morning and put on a stiff waist and run for a street car. I'd rather not have so much money."

"No, I would I," said Fred. He drew a long hard breath. "I tried to stand it. But one room is cramped, isn't it?"

"And, Milly, 'I get a raise. Thirty. Maybe we can get a girl for the rough work."

"Fred," said Milly solmenly, "I'd like to scald an ice box again."

Minton-Murphy

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

BALTIMORE, July 8.—A beautiful wedding, of special interest to many Atlantians, was that of Miss Nellie Murphy to Mr. Charles A. Minton, which took place Tuesday evening at St. Martin's Catholic church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father John T. Norton, assisted by Father Carroll Smythe and Father Laurence Brown.

The ushers were Mr. Stephen P. Manly, Mr. George A. Lunt, Mr. Harry A. Roddy and Mr. Harry T. Weigman. Maid of honor Miss Marie Lepson, and best man Mr. Joseph J. Maloney.

The bride, a lovely brunette, wore a wedding gown of white charmeuse, trimmed with Duchess lace and pearls. Her veil arranged cap style, was caught with a cluster of orange blossoms. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, the gift of the groom. Her bouquet was of orchids covered with valley lilies.

A reception at the home followed the church ceremony, the occasion celebrating also the twenty-fifth anniversary of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John William Murphy. Decorations of palms, Easter lilies and southern smilax were very artistically arranged throughout the house.

Mrs. Minton, as Nellie Murphy, spent her childhood in Atlanta, and has been very popular socially since her debut here. Mr. Minton is well known and popular both in business and social circles.

Mr. and Mrs Minton left for eastern summer resorts and after August 1, will be at home at 923 North Fulton street, Baltimore.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

When Old Granny Fox found that Old Man Coyote was not at his usual napping place she was sure that Reddy Fox must have been very stupid, and thought that he saw him there when he didn't. She hurried to the Laughing Brook and waded in it for a little way in order to destroy her scent, so that Bowser the Hound would not know in which direction she had gone. You know water is always the friend of little animals who leave scent in their footsteps. Bowser came baying up to the edge of the Laughing Brook and there he stopped, for his wonderful nose could not follow Granny in the water, and he could not tell whether she had gone up or down or across the brook.

But Bowser is not one to give up easily. No, indeed! He had learned many of Granny's tricks, and now he knew well enough what Granny had done. At least Bowser thought that he knew.

"She'll wade a little way and then she will come out of the water, so all I have to do is to find the place where she has come out, and there I will find her tracks again," said he, and with his nose to the ground hurried down one bank of the Laughing Brook.

He went as far as he thought Granny could have waded, but there was no trace of her. Then he crossed the brook, and with his nose still to the ground ran back to the starting place aoing the other bank.

"She didn't go down the brook, so she must have gone up," said Bowser, and started up the brook as eagerly as he had gone down. After running as far as he thought Granny could possibly have waded Bowser crossed over and ran back along the other bank to the starting place without finding any trace of Granny Fox. At last, with a foolish and ashamed air, Bowser gave it up and started for home, and all the time Granny Fox was lying in plain sight watching him. Yes, sir, she was watching him and laughing to herself. You see, she knew perfectly well that Bowser depends more on his nose than on his eyes and that when he is running with his nose to the ground he can see very little around him. So she had simply waded down the Laughing Brook to a flat rock in the middle of it and on this she had stretched herself out and kept perfectly still. Twice Bowser had gone right past without seeing her. She enjoyed seeing him fooled so much that for the time being she quite forgot about Old Man Coyote and the failure of her clever plan to make trouble for him.

But when Bowser the Hound had gone Granny remembered. She stopped laughing, and a look of angry disappointment filled her face as she trotted toward home. But as she trotted along her face cleared a little. "Anyway, Reddy and I will have a good dinner on that fat hen I caught in Farmer Brown's dooryard," she muttered.

When she reached home there sat Reddy on the doorstep, but there was no sign of the fat hen, and Reddy looked very uneasy and frightened.

"Where's that fat hen I caught?" demanded Granny crossly.

"I—I—I'm sorry, Granny, but I haven't got it," said Reddy.

"Haven't got it!" snapped Granny. "What's the matter with you, Reddy Fox? Didn't you see me throw it in the grass when I ran past the place where you were hiding, and didn't you know enough to go and eat it?"

"Yes," replied Reddy. "I saw you throw it in the grass, and I went out and got it, but on my way home I met some one who took it away from me."

"Took it away from you?" exclaimed Granny. "Who was it? Tell me this instant. Who was it?"

"Old Man Coyote," replied Reddy in a low, frightened voice.

Old Granny Fox simply stared at Reddy. She couldn't find a word to say. Instead of making trouble for Old Man Coyote she had furnished him with a good dinner. He was smarter than she.

Again Giants Prove Winners--Crackers Also Add Another

Clubs Assume Right Places In Standings

Within Next Two Weeks Best Clubs Will Go to Top and Others Will Fall—Atlanta Team Fighting for Lead

Should the Atlanta club continue at its present winning clip, the team will be leading the Southern league pennant race with the arrival of Sunday.

While the Crackers have been playing jam-up ball, the Mobile Montgomery and Chattanooga outfits have been offering erratic work, with the result that just two and a half games are between Atlanta and first place. This is not a big lead by any means and can be clipped down with three or four more wins, this being especially easy when it is figured that the league leaders are in Atlanta for three games the last of the week.

One of the main reasons for the fall of the Mobile club has been injuries. Charley Starr, second baseman and field leader of the Gulls, has been out of the game owing to injuries, and his loss is keenly felt. He is one of the most sensible infielders in the league, and when he is not around helping out in the many intricate plays which are sure to come up the team is at a big disadvantage. Then, too, the loss of Jacobson is a big handicap.

Though the loss of the two stars has handicapped the Gull club to a great extent, the team has always played a bit above its true form and could not be expected to maintain the same clip it was showing with the opening of June. The pitchers, batters and base runners were all doing really better than they knew how, and now, when they hit their true stride, the club slumps. This will doubtless continue until the team falls to fourth or third place.

The Montgomery club was never expected to hold out in front for any length of time, and the slump is not causing any surprise. The team is a god one, and is turning out a good class of ball, though all fans who have watched the race closely are confident that the Atlanta, Chattanooga and Birmingham clubs are superior to Johnny Dobbs' bunch and will lead the Dobbers past the wire.

Chattanooga has been largely held up in the race by the grand hurling of Covington and Sommers, and when this pair falter it will be all off. The team is not an especially hard hitting outfit nor is it starry at fielding, yet such grand pitching as Kid Elberfeld's team has had of late can't help from winning.

Within the next two weeks the clubs will begin to assume the places they are to hold for the remainder of the race. They are now beginning to shift down to the regular places, and it won't be long before you can begin to place the bunch.

OUTLAWS NOT TO BE USED

CHICAGO, July 9.—National and American league club owners have been warned by the national commission not to offer contracts to promising players of the Federal league. This was learned here last night when an explanation was asked for the failure of "Silk" Kavanaugh, the Chicago Federal league outfielder, to report to the Chicago American club. He was signed several weeks ago.

Kavanaugh and other Federals with whom the majors have been "flirting" must remain with the new league until their contracts expire and they become free agents. This action was taken by the commission despite the protest of the American association and Three Eye leagues that their players were being approached by Federal agents.

"TEX" RICHARDS WINNER IN BIG MOTOR EVENTS

Last night's two-wheel set-to at Prince's motordrome was another case of too much Richards, for the Texas speed merchant had things going his way in both the big races. McNeil's big J. A. P. was out of the fray on account of some trouble, and Graves's new machine refused to work for him, and with both these fast riders on slow mounts, Richards had an easy time of it, for he seemed to possess just a little more in his boat every time, and when he opened 'er up the stands stood to their feet and howled.

The first race on the program was an amateur affair, and there was some fast going in this event, and before the close of the season one or two of the novices gives promise of being able to compete with the big riders.

Richards, Lockner, Shields and Graves qualified for the final five-mile heat of the Walthour sweepstakes, and the best all-round riding of the evening was seen in this event. The four men would be neck and neck for one or two laps, with the top man not farther than eight or ten inches from the perpendicular board, and at one time George Lockner roared around for about a quarter of a lap on the white stretch, and a fall looked imminent, when Richards shot ahead and remained a half lap in the lead for the remaining four laps of the race.

George Renel, the little Frenchman, was back in the game again last night, and showed up well.

A summary of the events follows:

WALTHOUR SWEEPSTAKES.

(Heats, 3 miles; final, 5 miles.)

First Heat—Billy Shields, first; Harry Schwartz, second; Jack McNeil, third. Time, 2:16 3-5.

Second Heat—Tex Richards, first; George Lockner, second; George Renel, third. Time, 2:07 2-5.

Third Heat—Morty Graves, first; Henry Lewis, second; Harry Glenn, third. Time, 2:19.

Final—Tex Richards, first; George Lockner, second; Morty Graves, third. Time, 3:28 3-5.

MOTORDROME PURSE.

(Heats, 2 miles; final, 4 miles.)

First Heat—George Renel, first; Henry Lewis, second; Freddie Luther, third. Time, 1:28 2-5.

Second Heat—George Lockner, first; Jack McNeil, second; Henry Schwartz, third. Time, 1:32 3-5.

Third Heat—Tex Richards, first; Morty Graves, second; Billy Shields, third. Time, 1:29 2-5.

Eight in Row Badly Wanted

Conzelman or Dent to Work in Final Battle With Memphis Club

Everybody's looking to see if the Crackers will make it eight straights today by taking the last game of the Memphis series.

Conzelman will probably do the hurling if his arm is in shape, and if the big boy is not fit for service Dent will take the mound. Kissinger will fling for Bernhard's crew.

The Atlanta club has already compiled seventeen runs against the Turtles' seven, and the hits stand twenty-three to twelve in favor of the locals.

Should the Crackers keep hitting behind their pitchers at this rate through the Mobile series, the end of the week will find them very close to the top rung.

CHANGES FOR JUST A DAY

Atlanta, by winning Tuesday, lifted herself into third place in the Southern league pennant race, and is only one full game behind Montgomery in second place. Mobile continued tumbling down. The Gulls are slipping fast, and Atlanta is climbing. The other two first division clubs are just holding their own.

Big Jeff Tesreau and Rube Marquard combined won another game for the Giants, while poor unlucky Charlie Doolin dropped another. The Giants are getting a death grip on first place.

Tuesday was an off day all around the American league circuit.

HOW CLUBS PLAY TODAY

(By Associated Press.)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 9.—Birmingham and Montgomery play the last game of the series this afternoon, each team having won a game. Foxen and Mayer for Birmingham and Brown and Gribben for Montgomery will be the batteries for the day.

(By Associated Press.)

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 9.—For today's engagement of Mobile and Nashville local showers are predicted. Williams and Gibson are scheduled to work for Nashville. Berger and Schmidt will be the battery for the visitors.

HITTING WINS FOR CRACKERS; GIANTS HELPED BY BASE STEALING

While the New York Giants are making history in the National league the Atlanta Crackers are turning the same trick in the Southern. The Giants have now won thirteen games all in a row, and in this way crawled to first place. Atlanta has won just seven straight battles and the team right now is very near the head of the percentage ladder.

When the New York club began the present spurt the team was in second place, and right now the outfit is leading the National league race by a margin of five and one-half games. The Phillies were the club to be ousted from the lead, the Giants starting this bunch on the downward slump and causing Dooin and his whole outfit to lose heart. In getting the recod of thirteen straight wins the Giants have not played the very best ball in the world, yet the hits have all come at the right moment and the superb base running has been quite a big help.

Atlanta has managed to put over seven wins without a defeat through grand hitting. The pitchers, too, have shown a big improvement over their work during the early season and this has all helped. In the last nine games the Atlanta bunch has scored 55 runs on 93 hits, while the opposing clubs have tallied just 28 runs on 66 bingles. This shows a big difference in the playing of the teams and shows just why Atlanta has climbed to third place within striking distance of the league leaders. Just a few more wins and Atlanta will be at the top of the heap.

Ability to turn hits into runs is the main reason for the spurt of the Atlanta Crackers. In the last nine games seven of which have been wins and the other ties, the Atlanta club has made ninety-three hits count for fifty-five runs. This is something the team did not think of doing earlier in the season, but with such good work continued it means a sure high ranking.

In each of the games Atlanta has proven good with the willow, not allowing the opposition to lead at the hitting end of the fray. Only twice have the hits been fewer than ten, while the opposing clubs have but once gone over nine hits. This shows good hitting by the Cracker batsmen as well as superior flinging by the Cracker hurlers.

In scoring fifty-five runs on ninety-three hits the Atlanta club has averaged 6.1 runs to the game and 10.3 hits. The rival clubs, in getting twenty-eight runs and sixty-six hits, have averaged 3.1 runs and 7.3 hits. The Atlanta bunch has made twelve errors against twenty-two for the visiting teams.

All the Atlanta players now have the winning spirit and are out to set a record for consecutive wins. Of course the team may lose the game today, but it won't be because they are not trying. All want to mount to the top of the percentage ladder and won't be content until they do.

Racer Heavily Insured

NEW YORK, July 9.—It is learned that August Belmont, chairman of the Jockey club, who is now in Europe, has insured his horse Tracery for $150,000. He was moved to take this step after the act of a man at the Ascot cup race in England a few days ago, when he threw himself at Tracery and sent the horse crashing to the track when he was leading and seemed to have the rich stakes at his mercy.

Ingersoll to Cincinnati

VANCOUVER, British Columbia, July 9.—Bob Ingersoll, considered one of the best pitchers in the Northwestern league, has been sold by Vancouver to the Cincinnati Nationals for $3,000.

The New York Giants have been followed by old good luck in making the record spurt of thirteen straight wins, in which all of the victories have been over first division clubs. In six of the thirteen battles the Giants have been outhit, and yet the score always shows up with the Giants holding the lead.

One of the main reasons for the good showing of the Giant bunch is the return to form of the hurling corps, and the crack base running of the entire club. Last season it was grand base running which proved such a help to the Giants in winning the National league flag and this year the same promises to be true.

In the thirteen games the Giants have scored 91 runs against 48 for the three opposing teams. This gives the McGraw outfit an average of 7 runs to the game against 3.7 for the opposing teams. At hitting there is not such a difference, the Giants getting 154 hits or an average of 11.9 per game against 123 or an average of 10 per fray. This plainly shows base running for the New Yorkers have made their hits count for far more than the opposing teams. At error-making the Giants have slipped but 15 times against 33 bobbles for the other teams.

Leaders Here On Thursday

Unless Mobile Bunch Picks Up a Bit, Crackers Will Take Top Round

Mobile opens in Crackertown for three games on Thursday.

There is some fight to this series, as the Crackers are climbing rapidly and are only two and a half full games behind Mobile, and a clean sweep would mean that Atlanta ousts the Gulls from their place.

On the last occasion when Atlanta and Mobile exchanged amenities the league leaders came out rather the worse for wear, and the Crackers had two straight wins to their credit.

In this series Mobile will be a little crippled, as Starr, their second sacker, is still on the shelf, Paul Sentell, the ex-Cracker, covering the Keystone. Jacobson is still confined with typhoid fever.

The Crackers, on the other hand, are going at a great clip and are primed to repeat the performance they gave in Mobile on their road trip.

STARS OF ONE DAY

Bobby Byrne: Was used as a pinch hitter Tuesday, batting for McQuillian in the ninth. He did not hit.

Paskert: Was up four times and did not connect.

Erskine Mayer: Pitched 9 2-3 innings against Pittsburg Tuesday, giving up twelve hits, losing his game, 6 to 4.

Almeida: Played errories ball Tuesday, and hammered out a single out of two times at bat.

Daubert: Got two out of four.

Smith: Hit one in four trials.

Allen: Hurled the game for Brooklyn, losing by the score of 2 to 1. He gave up only six hits.

Phelan: Was successful in two out of three attempts to hit.

Great Hurling By Thompson; Atlanta Wins

Ex-Georgia Star Allowed but Four Hits—Bit Unsteady at Start—Welchonce the Man Works for Cracker Clan

Seven wins and not a defeat in the last nine starts.

Harry Welchonce was the main worry throughout the Tuesday game with the Memphis Turtles. A home run, triple and two singles in four times up.

Pitcher Carl Thompson had the necessary batting back of him in Tuesday's game, and Memphis did not have a chance to get away. The Crackers finally won out 5 to 3, and at that Thompson did not pitch any better ball than he often turned out for the fast ones when he dropped his game.

Atlanta scored five runs, and Welchonce was responsible for just four of the bunch. His home run scored one, and his triple a couple more, while he himself crossed the pan on one occasion. Once he sacrificed.

Wallace Smith certainly had Liebhardt's number. The first two times up he walked, and in the seventh, with two on the bags and just one down, he was again passed, this time purposely. He was credited with just one time at bat.

Joe Agler holds tightly to his batting eye. Three times he hit safely, and once he tallied. All of his hits were of the stinging kind, one going for two bags. Joe also swiped a bag.

Atlanta made at least one hit in each inning. Two costly strikeouts with the bags occupied prevented the winning of the game before the eighth inning, when Welchonce tripled and put it on ice.

Tommy Long was somewhat around with the wood, he made just two hits in four times up and scored two of the five runs. One of his hits was for three bags and started a nice batting rally.

Joe Agler and Carl Thompson made a neat play on Liebhardt in the seventh. The big pitcher hit a hot one to the right of second, which Joe barely reached in time to toss to Thompson at first. It was fast work all the way round.

Love robbed Thompson of a hit in the sixth by a nice running catch. He started with the crack of the bat and got the ball after a long run.

Whitey Alperman always plays a ball on just the right hop. His careful planning of the long hop enabled him to kill Love's hard drive towards second in the third round.

In the first inning Welchonce singled sharply over second. In the third he sacrificed out. In the fifth, with Long perched on second, he drove a home run to deep left center. In the seventh he hit to the infield and beat the throw to first. In the eighth, with Agler on second and Long on first, he hit over the right field sign boards for a home run, this winning the game.

Memphis made three of their four hits in the first round. Butler's double, Baerwald's single and Ward's single did the work. After that one hit in the fourth ended it.

More Hitting For Vol Club

Several material changes in the present Nashville club are to be made in the near future, according to Manager Schwartz, in an effort to put a permanent crimp in the Vols' losing streak, which has been so disastrously in evidence during the past few weeks. Infielder Granfield, of Cincinnati, is expected any moment and as soon as room is going to be made for him on the infield, one of the present inner gardeners going to the outfield, which means that one of the present outfielders will be severed for the time being.

Manager Schwartz intimated that he had two more fast youngsters on the string, but one needs being yet unclosed he did not care to turn loose anything this morning. With the addition of Granfield, who will probably be stationed at third, his regular station, Baumgartner will doubtless go to the outfield, but in whose place is as yet undecided.

When the new infielders arrive and some hitting strength is added to the Vols, the old story of one of the locals losing is going to be reversed, as it has been conclusively shown that hitting is the home lads' only weakness. The Vols have good pitchers, pitchers who have been hurling five and six-hit games, only to lose them because their teammates failed to back them. And when hitting strength is added, which will be some time in the immediate future, the Vols are going to put up a classy article of ball and get back into the running.—Nashville Banner.

Achilis Cup Tourney

SEA BRIGHT, N. J., July 2.—W. H. Washburn, the young Harvard player; G. P. Gardner, Jr., of Boston; G. J. Touchard, Long Island champion, and T. R. Pell, former national indoor champion, won their places Tuesday in the semi-final round of the Achilis cup lawn tennis singles here. Washburn worked something of an upset, as he defeated W. J. Clothier, former national champion, at 6-4, 6-4. Pell likewise eliminated R. D. Little, the international, at 6-1, 6-1.

McGRAW CAN RETURN TO PLAYING FIELD

NEW YORK, July 9.—John J. McGraw was eligible today to return to the field management of the New York Nationals, after a five days' suspension, incurred by his trouble with Brennan, of Philadelphia. In the period that McGraw was directing his team from the unaccustomed position of grand stand box, the Giants did not lose a game.

FOR OLD TIME'S SAKE.

Ho! foreman of the Print Shop, the Cubs have come to town,
Bereft of Chance and Sheckard, of Tinker and of Brown;
But though their glory's fading, and waning is their star,
We'll spread for what they used to be and not for what they are;
And though perhaps no pennant is fluttering at stake,
Let's ring in "CRUCIAL SERIES" just for old time's sake.

Ho! foreman of the Print Shop, dig up your biggest type;
Let's boom the big occasion while the booming's fairly ripe;
We'll make it "NOW OR NEVER," "LAST STAND FOR EVERS' TEAM,"
"CUBS BATTLE FOR THE BUNTING"—and drift by in a dream;
And though it's idle joshing, or though it be a fake,
Let's rig up "CRUCIAL SERIES" just for old time's sake.

Ho! foreman of the Print Shop, our memory is keen,
So take us to the fighting days that marked the old machine;
Though Brownie's hook has vanished, though Steiny's day is done.
Though Tinker's smashing wallop no more counts the winning run,
Though Pfeister, Chance and Sheckard no longer grace the make,
Let's dig up "CRUCIAL SERIES" just for old time's sake.

THE RESCUE KID

Wagner may be passing, but the German Status has nothing to fear in the way of missing talent as long as the Great Zim maintains his batting eye and his temperament.

America faces the German team in the next round for the Davis cup, but with Wagner, Zimmerman, Schulte, Herzog, Lobert and Dauber still on this side of the Atlantic, you know where the odds will rest.

Wagner may be all through, but if so, you may notice where he passed out: At bat, 161; hits, 52; average, .323. He may only have a portion of one leg left, but not even the grapnels of old Doc Time could wrench away his batting eye.

A YEAR AGO.

Just a year ago, on the 8th of July, one of the notable tragedies of the pastime came off. On that date Mr. Marquard, with nineteen straight to his credit, bumped into a Mr. LaVender—or rather, bumped into Cub bats—and the heroic spirit blew open with a detonation.

The shock of this upset left the renowned Rube floundering for the remainder of the season, so this campaign he took no such chances on a fuzzy finish. Rather than absorb all the acute mental anguish of maintaining such a record run the southpaw wisely decided to drop a battle here and there in order to live in peace and poise. He has more than made good on this system, for where he had nineteen straight a year ago he now has but nine wins against five defeats.

This is a clip that the Rube can maintain without cracking his tranquility.

The Athletics have a team batting average of .285 except when they need three or four runs, whereat it amounts to .672. "Couldn't hit when hits meant runs" was never penned of this machine.

ANOTHER ANGLE.

Baseball in many respects is a great little game. In one of its other or offside respects we have Jimmy Sheckard, one of the grandest ball players and cleanest sportsmen of them all, pushed around from one club to another at whatever price the last club may care to pay. Or, as we remarked before:

This is your game, old pal—the Game that you loved so well;
That crowned you king of the Field through the realm of a golden spell;
You've saved from the grip of Time, from the Laurel that crowned your brow,
A dream and a wornout glove—well, what is the answer now?

The report is out that Ty Cobb has cracked a knee. If they also break his arm and put out one of his eyes it's an even bet that he doesn't bat above .390 for the next five or nine years.

Cobb, minus a leg, would still have something on thirty-five or forty we might mention if it wasn't for the bad taste involved in descending to personalities.

They may check, curb or rasp the Senators here and there, but Walter Johnson and Clyde Milan still maintain their portion of the trust. Johnson has won more games and Milan has pilfered more bases than either had accomplished at this date last season.

JOURNEYS TO THE DIAMOND
The Shortstop

The shortstop is a gazoop with a long distance pegging apparatus. Some shortstops find it advisable to cultivate a brain garden, but all realize the absolute necessity of possessing (and nursing) the Marathon wing.

When a cannon ball is pumped with 90kism speed through the spot usually occupied by the third baseman, the shortstop is supposed to go back and get it in time to prevent the runner up second from scoring.

When the pitcher with the smile and the glove permits a runt blow to bounce off his glove the shortstop is the gazunk whose duty it is to come in like a motorcycle, scoop the naughty pill, and ship it over to his brother on first, while standing on his left ear or thereabouts.

The shortstop is captain of all the Texas leaguers knocked into left and center field. The outfielders are backed against the fence looking for home runs, as is always thus when the batter crosses them with a Texas leaguer. The fair centries come dashing in at a high rate of speed, while the shortstop goes darting out or backing up, as the case may be, at an equally H. R. of S.

Just when a collision seems unavoidable and the feminine bug at your side topples in a faint the outfielders dash in either side of the shortstop who, thus penned in, begins to look out for himself. Meanwhile the ball drops unsullied, while the base runners tear around the path like a squad of Kiviats. Whereupon some bug in the bleachers (if there are any members) with a perverted sense of humor yells "Bonehead!"

When the team goes to the bench each one of the offenders has a different excuse for the inharmonious mass meeting in the vicinity of the falling Texas leaguer.

To be sure, either one o fthe horticulturists could have caught the ball in his pants pocket if the shortstop had remained in his own ballwick.

And beyond the glimmer of an argument the shortstop would have frozen the ball with his eyes shut if the gardeners hadn't stormed in like a patr of fast mails, hours behind time.

MONTGOMERY CLUB APPEALS FROM PRESIDENT'S RULING

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 9.—When Charles B. Jones president of the Montgomery club, declined to permit R. H. Baugh, of Birmingham, and F. P. Coleman, of Memphis, to settle his dispute with Charlie Frank, of New Orleans, in regard to the Bagby-Kutina-Snedecor deal, it was deemed necessary by the directors to adjourn without taking action.

Another meeting will be called for Memphis probably for next Sunday week.

There were five members of the directorate of the Southern league present—President Kavanaugh, R. H. Baugh, F. P. Coleman, Charles B. Jones and Charles Frank. Inasmuch as the Montgomery club has appealed from the decision of the president, who had ruled that the deal between Montgomery and New Orleans must go through, President Kavanaugh was incompetent to sit on the case. Jones and Frank were incompetent on account of the fact that they were interested. Manager Frank expressed willingness that Mr. Baugh and Mr. Coleman determine the merits in the case, but to this Jones was not agreeable.

The case in dispute is one of the most interesting in the recent history of the league. Some time ago, after Montgomery and New Orleans had discussed the matter of a deal for players, Mr. Jones wired Mr. Frank asking if he would give First Baseman Snedecor and $750 for Pitcher Bagby and First Baseman Kutina. Frank replied in the affirmative. Jones then determined not to trade. Manager Frank appealed to the president. He stated yesterday sustained. President Kavanaugh instructed Montgomery to complete the deal.

Jones appealed from the decision of the president. He tested yesterday that if the directors decided against him he would appeal to the highest court of baseball, the national commission.

There were rumors yesterday that the case when tried would develop sensational testimony. As is known, Kutina hinted yesterday that Jones had instructed the player not to report until after the Birmingham meeting, despite the fact that the president had ruled that the deal must be consummated. Mr. Jones denied that he had so instructed Kutina, and showed a copy of his written instructions that the player report to Manager Frank. It is expected that something in regard to salary will be brought to light when the case is finally acted upon.

Behr Loses Match

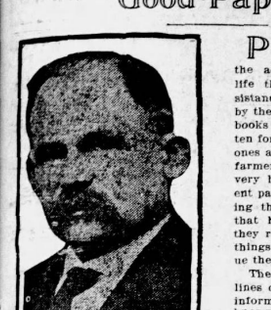
POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK

The Importance of Reading Good Papers



PROBABLY there is no one thing connected with enterprises of all kinds or with the actual everyday subjects of life that has received more assistance through one channel than by the reading of good papers and books with articles especially written for lines of work that different ones are engaged in. For instance, farmers are getting some of the very best articles through different papers that are capable of giving them valuable information that has been published, and if they read and keep up with these things there is many items of value they could gather by doing so.

The same thing applies to all lines of industry. The demand for information in nearly every line known requires these good articles though the different papers.

It is important that you should subscribe for and read some good paper connected with your line of work as it is invaluable to you, and there is no copy of the paper that comes for you but what is well worth the price you pay for the paper during the year.

We are not inclined to read enough and keep posted on our daily line of work and be benefited by the information that is offered us by the best writers who have had experience in the same line that we are working on, there are some good papers nowadays that are available we have no excuse for not being well posted and keeping up with the latest details in every line of work that you are engaged in.

If you are not a subscriber to some good paper you should not delay a day longer but get some good periodical that is filled with information referring to your line of work and learn what others are doing and get the benefit of the best posted people in your line. It will often help you out with many problems that you could never solve yourself, and could only learn about through the experience of the best writers. It means money to you to keep well posted in your line of business, and you cannot afford to neglect this most important thing when it can be had so cheap.

If you are in the dairy business subscribe for a good dairy paper. If you are in the live stock business get the best live stock journal you can. If you are a farmer read the best agricultural paper. If an insurance man there are insurance journals especially written for your benefit. The same thing in the automobile line, and if you are a poultryman, by all means subscribe for several good poultry papers, and especially should you select papers that are suited to the climate in which you live.

If for farming, poultry raising, truck gardening, or dairying, there are many papers that have articles in them suited to the particular section in which this paper is published. Therefore, you should read papers that are written by the best, and suited to the conditions in which you are undertaking your work.

There is no line of work so important or education so cheaply had as can be gotten by reading the best periodicals treating on the subject that you are interested in, and you should read and keep posted all of the papers that treat on your line of work that you can possibly secure.

Yours very truly,

QUESTIONS ASKED AND ANSWERED.

Mr. Loring Brown, Smyrna, Ga.

Dear Sir—I find your department in The Journal about the most interesting part of the paper. While my business takes up most of my time, still I am a farmer at heart and have my good-sized garden in which I carry on my experiments and derive much satisfaction.

I am in hearty sympathy with you in your efforts to attract the attention of the people of our state to the possibilities in meat-producing stock and dairying. I have even started a small piece of ground towards ultimately putting it in alfalfa. I feel that I can at least preach what I feel, and can speak with more conviction from my own experience, though it may be in a small way, than if I did not follow your teachings by practical experience.

However, there is one thing that the producer of beef must get around before a satisfactory price can be had for beef on the foot. I saw a neighbor who had a young cow in the condition try for three weeks to sell her to local butchers and finally had to accept three cents per pound, live weight, for her. If not mistaken, this is the price which has prevailed for years. Why, I cannot buy the green, ground bones from the butcher for less than three cents per pound; some of the steak I bought at 25 cents per pound may have come from this same cow.

I am glad to get your letter, and you struck the keynote. You are right about our markets in the south for beef; however, if we had enough of this product there would be competition in the shape of numerous packing houses, and they would offer prices sufficient to make it profitable. However, I know of a number of cases who have had similar experience to your

POULTRY FEED

HOW TO SECURE EGGS

DURING THE LATE SUMMER AND EARLY FALL MONTHS.

If you want eggs during the late summer and early fall months you must feed your hens on a thoroughly balanced ration, in the shape of a dry mash. We claim Aunt Patsy's Poultry Feed to be the best dry mash on the market, from the fact that it is composed of the highest grade of raw material that can be secured, free from filler or adulteration whatever, or cheap stuff used in this feed is composed; hence, if you take every ingredient of which the egg is composed; you will agree with us that if you put this feed in the hen's craw the same ingredients of which the egg is made you will stop to think a moment, you will agree with us that we have a right to expect the hen's digestive organs to convert these ingredients into the egg, and to yield more eggs than if fed on other feed.

Ask any successful poultry raiser what he thinks of Aunt Patsy's Poultry Feed, the Egg Producer.

GEORGIA FARMERS' UNION HEAD IN LOBBY PROBE

I. A. Smith Says New Orleans Meeting Was Fight Against Free Sugar

WASHINGTON, July 9.—I. A. Smith, of Tennille, president of the Georgia division of the Farmers' union, appeared before the senate lobby investigating committee today and declared that the committee meeting of the National Farmers' union held in New Orleans last spring really amounted to a manufacturers' gathering called to work against free sugar.

He said he didn't remember whether or not any action in regard to sugar was taken, but he asserted that letters were written to southern senators. He said he wrote to Senators Smith and Bacon requesting them to look after the farmers' interests.

"I was not present when he got back to Georgia he found he had been mixed up with a bad crowd.

"I reckon I'm a farmer." Mr. Smith told the committee when he began.

He was questioned about the meeting of a committee of the Farmers' Educational and Cooperative Union of America, last spring, at which a scheme to increase the consumption of cotton was to be discussed.

"Was any action taken in regard to sugar at that meeting?" asked Senator Overman.

"I don't think so. There were some letters written to senators. I wrote to Senators Bacon and Smith."

HIS EXPENSES PAID.

Smith testified that his expenses at the New Orleans meeting were paid by I. D. Bowen, president of the Texas branch of the union, and that President Barrett of the national organization, was not present.

Smith said he heard many arguments at the meeting about the bad effect free sugar would have on the cotton industry.

"I thought I was in the wrong place," said Smith.

"It was more of a manufacturers' meeting than a farmers'," suggested Overman.

"I'm one sir, so much so that I made a speech about it," said Smith.

Smith explained later that he telegraphed Senator Bacon and Smith to get into the Democratic caucus until it was assured that a duty would be put on meats and other farm products.

Smith said when he got back to Georgia he found he had been "mixed up with a bad crowd." He then learned, he said, that the meeting was really called to work against free sugar.

His letters to Bacon and Smith were requests that the farmers interests be looked after.

H. H. Mobley, of Prairie Grove, Ark., president of the state farmers' union, said he was at the New Orleans meeting. Bowen, who called the meeting, he said, had been named chairman of a committee on the greater consumption of cotton at the annual farmers' union at its last annual meeting. He did not go to New Orleans until the meeting was over, he said, but he was told it had been interesting.

THINGS WRONG AT NEW ORLEANS.

He got a general idea that some quick action was to be done in tariff matters to boost cotton prices.

He signed a telegram to the Arkansas senators at Bowen's direction asking for a hearing for Arkansas cotton interests.

"There is a suspicion in my mind that things were not just what they ought to have been, but I don't know much about it," said Mobley.

"I'm slow to make accusations," said Mobley, "but I have come to know that at all our meetings, state and national, we were surrounded by men who wanted us to do something for their interests.

"I feel like Mr. Smith, that there was something wrong at New Orleans."

"You saw no suggestion that indicated bad faith on the part of Bowen?" asked Cummins.

"No, sir."

Mobley said he thought Bowen paid the expense of the meeting and that he would be reimbursed by the national farmers' union.

HAWAII SUGAR INVOLVED.

A. D. Baldwin, an attorney of Cleveland, interested in Hawaiian sugar stock, also was called. He said he had nothing to do with the literature sent out by the Hawaiian sugar men. In Washington, he said, he represented Alexander & Baldwin, of New York, at $30 a day, while here.

"Can't you tell all you did do here?" asked Chairman Overman.

"I called on senators and representatives. I shouldn't suppose I called on more than a hundred senators. I sent written arguments to senators, but made no arguments before the subcommittee in charge of sugar.

"We had a common cause with the cane and beet men and consulted with them frequently about the general campaign."

"What do you mean by the campaign?" asked Senator Overman.

"There was an effort to convince senators and representatives and a publicity campaign."

"Do you feel you have been earning your $30 a day here?" asked Senator Walsh.

"I very much doubt it."

William Whitman, of Boston, former president of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers, was the first wool man to take the stand. The output of the Arlington mills, of which he is president, he put at between 540,000 and 600,000 pounds of cotton yarn a week and its capacity at 600,000 pounds of wool a week. He said the wool mills had not been running at capacity on account of poor market.

Saving and Investing

A Letter From a Young Woman.

BY JOHN M. OSKISON

A young woman in a western city has written to me for advice as to the investment of $1,000. She pleads ignorance of investment—and of practical training of any sort.

"Instead of having early training in business and the practical things of life," she says, "my girlhood days were filled with romance and sentiment, which, now that I am thrown upon my own resources, I can see are of no practical value."

Good Heafens! I wonder if this young woman believes from reading something I have written that I would substitute for the romance and sentiment of girlhood and young womanhood courses in finance and home economics? It is a thought to chill me with horror.

I can honestly say that if it comes to such a choice, I should prefer to see the young woman walking under the moon to studying bank credit and ledgers. But I believe that there is time for both occupations. That a young woman should know how to invest her bonds and not detract from her charm. That much I can say positively, and I have a notion that in the eyes of the right sort of young man (and one who is properly romantic, too,) such an accomplishment would heighten a young woman's charms.

The young woman who wrote to me is one of about 10,000,000 in this country who, in some degree, help to support a family by the money they earn. To say that it is no proper part of a woman's education to teach her to handle money is to ignore plain facts. More and more, the great band of money-earning women will increase.

It is strictly up to the parents of this day to see that some provision for economy is taught their daughters. They must learn the buying power of a dollar, and they must also learn the earning power of a dollar. Common sense requires that much. The teaching of it is not difficult; it will not rob a daughter of her charm.

DANIELS DECIDES FATE OF HAWAII NAVAL BASE

Future of Pearl Harbor, Near Honolulu, to Be Fixed by Naval Experts

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Secretary Daniels today will decide whether the great naval dock at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, shall be completed according to the original plans or work on it abandoned.

Much of the secretary's decision will depend on the recommendation of Rear Admiral Homer R. Stanford, head of the bureau of yards and docks, who has been investigating the recent accident in which the bottom of the great work collapsed when the water was withdrawn. F. R. Harris, an engineer of the department has made a report on conditions existing at the work. Admiral Stanford has had this before him for some days and upon it his recommendation largely will be used.

When the work at Pearl Harbor was undertaken it was expected that the docks would eventually afford a virtually impregnable rendezvous for the fleet. The desire of the navy department to have the work completed in time for the opening of the Panama canal, accounts for the department's desire for an early determination of the matter.

ACCUSE YOUNG CLERK OF PLANNING BIG ROBBERY

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 9.—Louis Freeman, an eighteen-year-old clerk, who was found bound and gagged in his employer's jewelry store in Maiden Lane Monday and told a story of having been attacked by a pretended customer, was arrested last night, charged with grand larceny. According to the police, Freeman confessed he entered into agreement to rob his employers, Louis Stern & Co.

August Sachs, nineteen years old, a clerk in the jewelry district, was arrested accused of robbery. He was Freeman's assailant the police say.

Henry Rosofsky, wearing the uniform of an American sailor, also was arrested on a charge of receiving stolen goods. All the jewelry, valued at $4,056, was found in a room occupied by Rosofsky. Rosofsky is attached to the United States gunboat Dolphin.

SOUTH GEORGIA TOMATOES OUTSELL FLA. SHIPMENTS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

TIFTON, Ga., July 9.—It took just one carload of south Georgia truck to show New Yorkers what can be grown in this section. A letter received by he Tifton truck growers, who loaded Georgia's first carload of tomatoes for New York commission agents, says that on account of the quality of the tomatoes they were able to interest the best buyers in New York in the shipment.

The tomatoes were sold to the choice trade and brought the highest price paid on the market that day. This was in competition with twenty-eight cars from Florida and fifteen cars from Mississippi.

Why Resinol Soap Keeps Complexions Clear and Healthy

When you wash your face do you realize that it is not enough to remove the dirt—that your skin needs a soothing, healing influence to keep your complexion fresh and free from blemish?

Ordinary toilet soaps do not assert this influence. Many of them contain free alkali which tends to dry the skin and destroy its delicate texture. Even the best of such soaps can only clean, they cannot heal and protect the skin. Resinol Soap, besides being an absolutely pure toilet soap, contains the same soothing, healing, antiseptic balsams as Resinol Ointment, the value of which in the treatment of skin affections is known throughout the medical profession. That is why Resinol Soap does for the skin what cosmetics are supposed to do—it insures not only a clean skin, but a healthy skin, and a fair, clear complexion. Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment are sold by all druggists. Trial free; Dept. 4-R. Resinol, Baltimore, Md.—(Advt.)

DETECTIVES BAFFLED IN HUNT FOR GIRL'S SLAYER

Two Suitors of Young Woman, Questioned by Police, Protest Innocence

(By Associated Press.)

WILKESBARRE, Pa., July 9.—Detectives seeking to clear up the mystery of the death of Alice Crispell, the eighteen-year-old girl whose body was found in Harvey's lake Monday, were no nearer their goal today. Friends of the Crispell family now believe that the young woman was not murdered, some of them advancing the theory that she might have fallen accidentally into the lake.

While Herbert Johns was kept in jail on suspicion, Harris Cann, of Wilkesbarre, mentioned in a letter Johns recently wrote to Miss Crispell, was questioned. He denied all knowledge of the case and said he believed Johns innocent.

One of the clues the police are following is a report that Miss Crispell was to have favored, between Cann and Johns, the first one who swam the widest part of Harvey's lake, a distance of more than two miles.

RAILROADS AND TRAINMEN BREAK OFF NEGOTIATIONS

Eastern Labor Situation Unsettled—Erie Ry. Declines to Treat With Men

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 9.—Preliminary to a general meeting of the so-called committee of 1,000 on Saturday, at which the strike vote recently taken will be ratified, minor committees of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors held a conference in New York today to discuss the situation relative to the wage dispute with forty-five eastern railroads.

Negotiations with the roads were practically broken off yesterday with the refusal of the managers' committee to consider the men's demand for a 20 per cent wage increase, and the situation was further complicated by the withdrawal from the proceedings of the Erie railroad and subsidiaries on the ground that they could not afford to be party to any conferences looking to wage increases.

President Garretson, of the conductors, said today there was little new in the situation, and that the unions probably would have nothing to announce until after Saturday's meeting.

OFFICERS COMPETE FOR PLACE IN AERO CORPS

Undismayed by Lieut. Call's Death, "Shave-Tails" Fight for His Post

TEXAS CITY, Tex., July 9.—Conflicting testimony about the cause and manner of Lieutenant Loren H. Call's fall to death in his biplane here yesterday has developed among the 200 persons who witnessed it.

The investigating board expects to complete its report tonight, but this is not to be made public unless given out in Washington.

Some of the spectators assert a series of explosions preceded the aeroplane's fall. Others dispute eyewitness stories that Call hung beneath his machine by the handrail, claiming they saw the biplane turn over and over.

Lieutenant Call's body will be shipped to his father, Judge L. W. Call, in Washington and interment will be in the national cemetery at Arlington. It is said that despite the long list of army aviation fatalities many young officers have already filed applications for detail to the vacancy in the aero squadron caused by Call's death.

TIFTON YOUTH TAKEN TO PHILA. ON FELONY CHARGE

TIFTON, Ga., July 9.—Detective Frank K. Lowry, of the Philadelphia Bureau of Police, left here Monday night for Philadelphia with Harry L. Kramer, who was arrested by Chief of Police Thrasher on a warrant from Philadelphia charging embezzlement.

It is alleged that Kramer collected for a wholesale shirt manufactory and instead of turning the money over to the manufacturer, charged the amount to the merchant from whom he collected. His shortage is said to be about $900.

Kramer has been living in Tifton for about two years and has been connected with the mercantile establishment of D. Weinstein.

Macon Booster Train

MACON, Ga., July 9.—Macon business men and members of the local chamber of commerce are planning to operate a booster train from Macon through the north this fall for the purpose of advertising Macon and Bibb county. A committee has already been appointed by E. W. Stetson, president of the commercial body, to canvass the business houses of Macon for the purpose of learning how many delegates can be secured for the trip.

Two routes have been proposed from Macon to Minneapolis. The first route is from Macon to Atlanta, to Knoxville, to Cincinnati, to Indianapolis, to Chicago to Minneapolis. The second route from Macon is via Chattanooga to Nashville, to Evansville, to Terre Haute, to Chicago on to Minneapolis. The above two routes are over the Central railway. The Southern railway will submit their two routes, which are said to be better and have more stops than the routes over the Central.

A VEGETABLE MADE $150,000

A young European singer who had suffered from indigestion, with the help of a famous French doctor (who had told him of a vegetable having marvelous digestive properties) made a sauce containing this vegetable, which he used with his food and in the cooking. It was pronounced by the best cooks in Europe as a sauce unexcelled. The sauce was made by a company who had paid the singer for the wonderful recipe. So great and immediate has been the success of Waw-Waw that it is to be found in all parts of the world. It adds zest and piquancy when used in the cooking, and with soups, salads, hot and cold meats and fish. Waw-Waw (an obsolete South American word for vegetable) is purely vegetable. Miss Rita Jolivet, the wonderful actress tasted and helps my digestion wonderfully." A 25-cent bottle from your local grocer will convince you how you will enjoy your food.
